Transit Strike In Pittsburgh May Be Long

No Meetings Scheduled as Traffic Jams Grow Larger

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Pittsburgh commuters battled the effects of a strike of 2200 trolley and bus operators of the city's principal mass transit system for the second day today with the prospect the walkout may be a long one.

All indications were that there would be no early letup in the street car strike which is forcing 425,000 daily riders to seek other means of transportation.

The strike entered its second day today with no meetings scheduled between the Pittsburgh Railways Co. and union officials.

Neighbors banded together in thousands of car pools to ease the inconvenience of foregoing their regular transportation. The resulting traffic congestion in its first day, Monday, provided a test for Pittsburgh police who are accustomed to traffic tieups because of the virtual renovation of downtown Pittsburgh.

Bumper to Bumper

Bumper to bumper traffic jams backed up for miles along main thorofares. By mid morning, City Traffic Engineer Michael Gittens described traffic as "terrible."

The strike, first scheduled for last Aug. 30, was postponed at that time. On Oct. 7, the State Public Utility Commission granted the railways company a fare boost, giving rise to hopes the walkout would be averted.

At 3 a.m. Monday, the union refused Mayor David Lawrence's request for another postponement. The refusal came after daily meetings between company and union officials, conducted by federal and state mediators.

The union, which had lowered its wage demands from 36 cents to 31 cents per hour for a two year period, announced it was reverting to its original position.

Economy League Says Tax Relief To Help Industry

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The Regional Industrial Development Corp., in a study requested by the Pennsylvania economy league, said today there is "evidence of a warmer climate" for industry in the state.

The conclusion was based on tax relief granted to manufacturers by the last legislative session.

Citing "significant reductions in the tax burden on industry," the corporation said the "harmonious spirit" in which the legislative chances were achieved should prove "attractive" to manufacturers.

The study computes taxes which would be paid by three typical manufacturing corporations in 52 Pennsylvania communities and those due in 133 localities in nine rival industrial states, including Ohio and West Virginia. A similar study last year found total state and local taxes on manufacturing in Pennsylvania exceed those of the other states surveyed.

The new study shows Pennsylvania now ranks fifth in average total tax costs. This middle-ground results from the combination of higher state taxes and lower local taxes in Pennsylvania than in any of the other nine states surveyed.

Greensburg Man Sentenced to Jail

GREENSBURG, Pa. (UP) — Robert F. Fritz, 30, Greensburg, was sentenced to 10 to 20 years in Western Penitentiary today after pleading guilty to two charges of forgery before Judge Richard Laird.

Fritz admitted stealing two checks from the mailbox of his employer, a Unity Twp. farmer, and forging his name to them. The checks totaled $446.

Fritz had been in court three previous times on forgery counts, twice receiving suspended sentences and one a six-month jail term.

Pittsburgh Nurse Burned to Death

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Mary A. McKay, 55, a nurse at St. John's Hospital, burned to death Monday when her clothing caught fire from a cigarette.

Police said her body was found by her roommate, Grace Burkett, also a nurse, who arrived at their North Side apartment from the hospital.

State Fights To Keep Estate In This Country

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — A $36,000 estate left by a former tavern owner to relatives in the Soviet Union was claimed Monday by attorneys for the Commonwealth.

The money was left by John Zupko, also known as Ivan Zubchenko who died in 146. Assistant State Attorney General Bernard I. Shovlin based his case on a state law which gives the court authority for such action when it believes the beneficiaries in a foreign country would not have actual use, enjoyment or control of the money.

Harold J. Berman, law professor at Harvard Law School, testified that the beneficiaries would get full use of the money if they are not politically active against the U. S. S. R. government.

Orphans Court Judge Charles Klein continued the case.

Hoffa to Contest Injunction

WASHINGTON (UP) — Teamsters Union attorneys prepared today to ask the U.S. Court of Appeals to let James R. Hoffa take office as union president.

The union's lawyers want the court to set aside a temporary federal district court injunction preventing Hoffa from taking over command of the nation's largest union for 10 days.

The 44-year-old Hoffa, who was planning to take over from Dave Beck possibly today, also was to be arraigned today in New York on federal wiretap - conspiracy and perjury charges. His lawyers are seeking a postponement of trial on grounds disclosures by the Senate Rackets Committee prejudiced the case against Hoffa.

Beck Staying In

Federal District Judge F. Dickinson Letts signed the temporary injunction Monday continuing Beck in office. Beck has agreed to step down before his term expires Dec. 1.

Letts held there was a chance Hoffa would "consolidate unlawfully acquired power" if allowed to take office with a slate of handpicked vice presidents.

Letts ordered the union to show cause next Monday why the election and other business at the Teamsters' recent Miami Beach convention should not be nullified. Hoffa was victorious by a 3-to-1 margin.

The judge acted on a plea by 13 rank-and-file Teamsters who charged that the election was "rigged" so that Hoffa could not lose. Godfrey P. Schmidt, attorney for the 13 rebels, said the proceedings at Miami Beach proved that more than 80 per cent of the convention delegates were illegally selected.

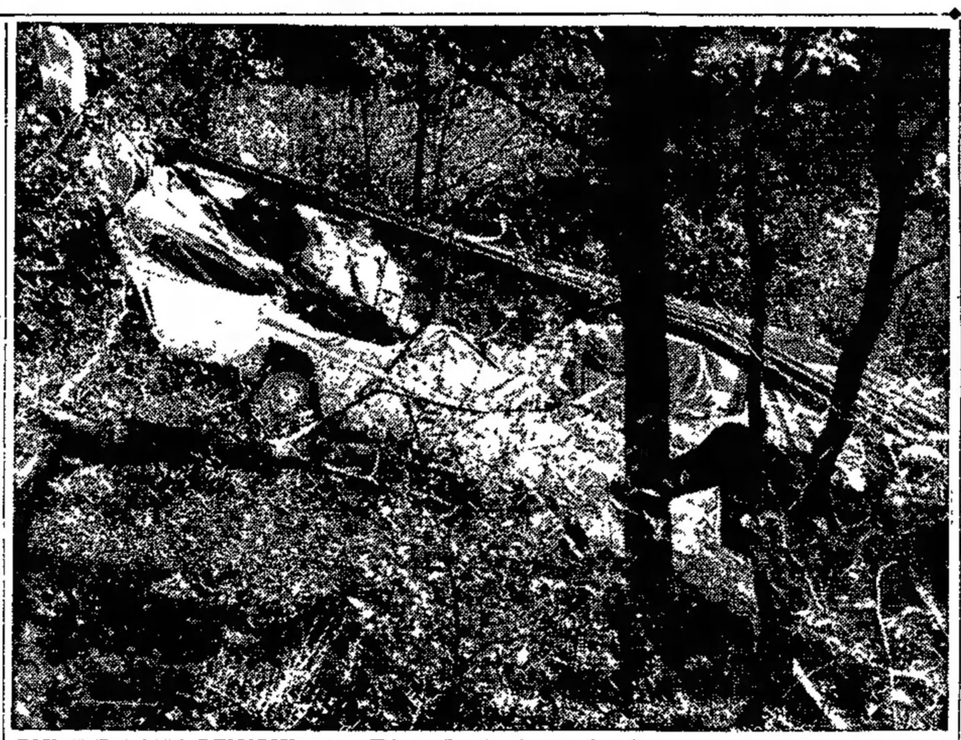
Hoffa Pleads Innocent to Perjury Charge

NEW YORK (UP)—James R. Hoffa, president-elect of the Teamsters Union, pleaded innocent in Federal Court today to lying to a federal grand jury about the alleged tapping of his own Detroit office telephones.

Hoffa appeared before Federal Judge William B. Herlands here on two separate federal actions.

After accepting Hoffa's plea to the perjury charge, Herlands began hearing arguments on the setting of a trial date for Hoffa and others on charges of conspiring to tap telephones of his union associates.

Hoffa, his chief union aid, Owen Bernard Brennan, and private investigator Bernard Bates Spindel were indicted on charges they conspired to illegally tap phones and record conversations in Hoffa's Detroit headquarters building.



FOUR NEW CARS DEMOLISHED — This trailer-truck carrying four new automobiles went out of control and crashed near the intersection of Routes 31 and 71 on the Monessen side of West Newton. The trailer broke loose from the cab and went 30 feet down an embankment. The driver, Steve Fluty, Evansville, Ind., escaped unhurt.

$18,000 Damages in Series Of Spectacular Area Crashes

Some $18,000 in damages resulted from two motor accidents in the district today, state police reported.

An estimated $15,500 damage was caused near West Newton about 5:30 this morning when a huge trailer-truck carrying four new automobiles went out of control and tumbled over an embankment on Route 31, not far from the Route 71 intersection, state police reported.

The driver, Steve Fluty, Evansville, Ind., who escaped unhurt, told police he was traveling down a hill when his brakes failed, causing him to lose control.

As the vehicle roared down the hill, the trailer broke loose from the cab, slammed through three guard posts and went 30 feet down an embankment.

The new Plymouth cars were strewn over the hillside and completely demolished.

Poles Torn Out

Meanwhile, the cab continued to roll down the hill, tearing out a utility pole, several guard rails and cable from 11 guard posts before coming to a stop. The driver stayed in the cab in order to steer it away from oncoming vehicles, he told police.

No other vehicles were involved.

State police also reported a three-car accident which occurred about 1 o'clock this morning on Route 51 near the Route 48 intersection.

Drivers involved were Charles Jones, 30, Elizabeth; Joseph DeLuca, 30, R. D. 1, West Newton, and Robert McClellan, McKeesport.

Police said Jones was traveling north when his car collided head on with the DeLuca machine. The McClellan vehicle, also traveling north, slammed into the rear of the Jones car. Total damage was estimated at $2,500.

Jones and DeLuca were taken to Monongahela Memorial Hospital, the former receiving leg injuries and the latter deep cuts of the forehead.

Rocket Spotted In Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP—An amateur astronomer early today said he spotted the rocket which is traveling with the Russian satellite Sputnik flash across the sky.

Adam L. Ott said he saw what he believed to be the rocket through a six-inch reflecting telescope from the yard of his North Side home. He said the rocket reflected a steady light for about 7 seconds at 6:10 a.m.

Dr. Nicholas E. Wagman, director of the Allegheny Observatory, supported Ott's claim that the rocket rather than Sputnik was spotted because of the time element. Moonwatch headquarters in Cambridge, Mass., placed the rocket six minutes ahead of the satellite. The satellite itself was due over New York at 6:17 a.m.

U. S. Programs Being Assessed; Speed-up Urged

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower scheduled a White House meeting today with the nation's top scientific brains to assess this country's progress in the cold war of science.

Eisenhower's meeting with his 13-member science advisory committee came against a backdrop of strong new demands from two Democratic senators for a speed-up in the U.S. intercontinental ballistic missile program.

At the same time, the United Press learned this country is trying to reassure its friends and allies around the world the Soviet Sputnik doesn't mean a U.S. defeat in the scientific and military races. They are being reminded America still has an atomic Sunday punch ready for any Communist aggression.

Mystery Force Probed

In Cambridge, Mass., scientists at the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory were investigating a mysterious physical force which apparently is shifting the course of the satellite. Dr. J. Allen Hynek, associate director of the observatory, said the force's appearance may be the biggest development since the satellite was launched.

The session with the scientists was scheduled before the Russians popped an artificial moon into a globe-girdling orbit Oct. 4. But White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said missiles and satellites would be on the agenda.

Former Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson said Monday he thinks this country has kept pace with Russia in military strength in the past five years. But he said it was a "matter of opinion involving many factors" whether America is stronger than Russia now.

Symington States Disagreement

A far different view came from Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.). He declared Russia will be able to bombard the United States with ICBM's within two or three years. He said it is ahead of the United States.

Symington, a former Air Force secretary and a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee said the administration cutbacks had slowed the missiles program. He renewed his demand for a special session of Congress Monday at a press conference, asserting a "great deal more" money can be used profitably to speed up the program.

The cutback charge was backed up by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) with correspondence showing the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee urged Eisenhower in 1955 to put the ICBM on a wartime "crash" basis.

Traffic Detour On Schoonmaker Opens Tomorrow

No traffic will be permitted to enter west Monessen via Schoonmaker Ave. effective tomorrow morning at 7 o'clock, Chief of Police Michael Kuvinka said today.

Kuvinka said the streets department tomorrow will begin tearing up brick on Schoonmaker Ave. between 14th and 17th streets in preparation for the widening and paving of Schoonmaker Ave. by state Highways Department contractors.

The chief said the state will set up detours for west Monessen. One of the detours will be via St. Mary's Rd. off the Monessen-Belle Vernon highway, Route 906.

Frank Donatelli Co., general contractors, believes it will move its equipment into west Monessen next week or just as soon as the streets department has removed bricks from 14th to 17th streets.

Meanwhile, work on the resurfacing of Donner Ave. is continuing. The project, which started at Oneida St., was expected to reach Fifth St. today.

No parking will be permitted on Donner Ave. until the job is completed, Kuvinka said.

Workers expect to have the right lane, going west, completed before this week end.

Union Business Agents Guilty In Federal Court

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Two business agents of a Pittsburgh local of the heavy construction workers union were under conviction today for violating the Taft-Hartley Act by accepting $200 from a contractor on a Washington County road paving job.

A federal court jury deliberated two hours before returning the verdict Monday against Dante Martire and Thomas Pecora, officials of Local 1058 of the union. They face prison sentences of up to a year and fines of as much as $10,000 each.

At the trial, William Wiggins, who in 1951 held the contract for paving a section of Route 71 near Belle Vernon, said Martire, 41, and Pecora, 48, visited him.

"They told me it was customary in the trade to pay them one percent of the contract," Wiggins said "But I told them I wouldn't."

The contractor said the defendants first asked him for $3,000 and then cut the figure to $2,000. Later, he said, he and his partner agreed to give them $200.

The Taft - Hartley Act outlaws union officials accepting money from persons employing members of their union.

Woman Injured in Car-Train Collision

MCKEESPORT (UP) — Mary McCallum, 64, Pittsburgh, was injured Monday night when her car collided with a train at the Sheridan St. crossing in McKeesport.

Authorities at McKeesport Hospital listed her condition as fair. She was detained for X-rays and observation.

According to a spokesman for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, the car was dragged about 250 feet.

New Drug Will Ease High Blood Pressure

BOSTON (UP) — Two doctors, one of them the incoming president of the American Heart Assn., Monday night announced discovery of a drug they said promised new hope for 15 to 20 million Americans suffering from high blood pressure.

The drug, named Chlorothiazide, was expected to be ready by next January. It was reported to be in production now and available as samples to doctors.

Dr. Robert W. Wilkins, 50, a native of Chattanooga, Tenn., and president - elect of the American Heart Assn., and Dr. William Hollander, 32, of Waltham, Mass., made the announcement at Massachusetts Memorial Hospital, where they are on the staff.

They said the discovery, producing a "startling new cure," would aid in the 25-year battle against America's most common form of cardiovascular disease. High blood pressure, or hypertension, reduces life expectancy of most sufferers by as much as 20 years and strikes at the average age of 32.

Wilkins and Hollander based their opinion of Chlorothiazide's effectiveness on tests made of 51 hypertension patients in Boston during the past eight months.

Among their findings was that Chlorothiazide tablets were not only a potent diuretic but appeared directly responsible for a lowering of blood pressure, when used in combination with current treatments.

They also found that the drug was effective in controlling the blood pressure of highly resistant cases, and was useful in management of hypertension complicated by heart failure.

Donora Parochial School Closed

The flu-type epidemic circulating in the district yesterday resulted in the dismissal of all classes at St. Dominic parochial school in Donora.

Classes were dismissed until further notice when 16 pupils failed to report to school yesterday morning.

Meanwhile, other schools in the district reported a drop in absenteeism because of the current sickness wave.

County Democratic Dinner Nets $44,000

Some 2,000 persons attended the $25-plate dinner held by the Westmoreland County Democratic Committee at Twin Coaches last night.

After expenses, the committee will net about $44,000 from the affair.

Principal speaker at last night's event was Clinton Goldman, a top legal advisor for the United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO).

Clinton, who spoke in place of USW president David J. McDonald, traced the progress made by labor since the USW was founded and also told of the importance of labor today in our economic way of life. He was introduced by William Hart, USW District 19 director.

Prior to Goldman's address, which was difficult to hear because of the overflow crowd that jammed the Coaches, a long list of union officials, politicians and office-holders were introduced by

Egypt Warning Troops Ready to Engage in War

By UNITED PRESS

An official spokesman for the joint Egyptian - Syrian military command said today Egypt sent heavy armor and Soviet-built jets to Syria primarily "to participate in any war operations with the Syrian army."

The statement coincided with a stepped up propaganda campaign by Moscow accusing the United States of pressuring Turkey into "provocative" actions against Syria and Turkish warnings it would defend its territory.

The Egyptian-Syrian spokesman in an interview with the Cairo newspaper El Akhbar, said the Egyptian expeditionary corps was made up of "striking forces ready to carry out large scale military operations."

No Military Display

He said they included heavy tans, armored cars artillery units and Soviet-built warplanes.

"The dispatch of Egyptian troops to Syria was not a military display nor was it intended as a war of nerves against any country," the spokesman said. "It was effective military aid given for immediate coordination with the Syrian army in blocking any aggression."

New blasts against Turkey and the United States came from Moscow Radio and the Soviet Communist Party organ Pravda.

Moscow Radio said the "Imperialists" were pushing Turkey into provocations against Syria and that they were playing a "dangerous game with fire."

Pravda said the United States brought pressure on Turkey "in an obvious attempt to make her attack Syria." It brought up previous charges of a U.S. "plot" to subvert the Syrian government, and accused the United States of trying to intimidate the Arab countries.

52 Confirmed Asian Flu Cases in State

By UNITED PRESS

The number of confirmed Asian influenza cases in Pennsylvania remained at 52 today, its high-water point since the disease was reported in the state last June.

The state Health Department said the 23 additional confirmations were from these counties: Bucks, four; Delaware, five; Indiana, one; Montgomery, two; and Philadelphia, 11.

A department spokesman said the confirmations were of "little immediate use" to chart the course of the scattered outbreaks of flu across the state. He said the identifications were made on specimens from three to five weeks old.

Meanwhile, the classroom doors of two colleges in the state were closed for two weeks because of flu-type outbreaks.

Lycoming College at Williamsport ordered a shutdown until Oct. 23 and sent all students not stricken to their homes. The infirmary facilities were overtaxed because of the large number of students affected in the last several days, and faculty wives helped out in place of two nurses stricken.

Takes Precautions

Lehigh University in Bethlehem called off all classes until Oct. 28 as a precautionary measure because of outbreaks in Lehigh County. University officials emphasized there is no flu outbreak among students and there was only a 10 per cent absenteeism during the last eight days.

Classes in Bethlehem city schools were resumed Monday after being closed since last Wednesday.

Although additional Asian flu cases were reported in Philadelphia, absenteeism in the schools was about half that of last week.

In the western part of the state, school absenteeism was down to about 15,000 in Pittsburgh public schools, as compared to more than 22,000 the beginning of last week. Classes were also resumed in Westmoreland County.

The outbreak at Lycoming College left Juniata College in Huntingdon without a football game for its homecoming weekend when Lycoming called off this Saturday's scheduled game with Juniata.

Request for Trial Prior to Election Is Turned Down

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UP)—Judge Burton R. Laub of Erie County today refused a request by Perry L. Reeher, Lawrence County district attorney charged with conspiracy, for a trial prior to the Nov. 5 election.

Reeher had been charged with two counts of conspiracy stemming from the publication and distribution of alleged obscene political literature before last May's primary election. The literature attacked several candidates, including Reeher's opponent in the Republican primary.

Reeher waived a preliminary hearing Oct. 1 and his case, along with eight others indicted in connection with the literature, was bound over to the December term of Criminal Court. The district attorney had agreed to waive presentment before a grand jury if he were furnished the names and addresses of the Commonwealth's witnesses and granted an early trial.

In his opinion, Judge Laub said there was "no authority that we can discover which requires the Commonwealth to disclose the names and addresses of its witnesses."

Supreme Court Rejects Review

WASHINGTON (UP)—The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to review the case of Cleveland Johnson, twice convicted for a hold-up murder in Pittsburgh and now under the death sentence.

Johnson was convicted of shooting Wallace Russell, 54, in a Hill District tavern on Sept. 13, 1949 and sentenced to death in the electric chair.

He won 12 reprieves while fighting his case through appellate courts. He won a new trial, but was again convicted. In asking the U.S. Supreme Court to set aside the verdict, Thompson's attorneys contended that evidence of the defendant's previous criminal record should not have been permitted at the trial.

Flu Outbreaks Hit Midwest; Schools Closed

By UNITED PRESS

Outbreaks of flu attacked the Midwest with renewed vigor today, forcing the shutdown of numerous secondary schools and at least one college.

In Milwaukee, which has been in the throes of a flu epidemic since early this month, school officials reported about 14,000 grade and high school students absent Monday, plus about 150 teachers. Despite the high absenteeism, Milwaukee health officials said the disease may be on the decline in city schools.

Absenteeism climbed to 40 per cent in Madison, Wis., leading officials and football coaches at three high schools to consider cancelling games this week end.

Also in Wisconsin, President Miller Upton of Beloit College ordered the institution closed Monday for the rest of the week because of a flu epidemic. About 30 per cent of the college's 1,000 students failed to show up for classes.

In the East, New York City's flu epidemic appeared to be on the wane. The city's Department of Hospitals reported 2,178 persons sought treatment for respiratory infections during the 24-hour period ended at midnight Sunday, a slight increase from the 2,083 reported the previous day.

However, school absenteeism in the city Monday was down to 183,770 as compared with 280,164 last week.

Former Banker Faces Trial On Tax Evasion

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Milo K. Ruse, former president of the First National Bank of Point Marion who served a three-year probation term for using bank funds to successfully play the stock market, was on trial in federal court today on charges of evading $6,400 in income taxes.

At the opening of the trial Monday, Asst. U.S. Atty. John Gavin told the jury that the government would show Ruse understated his income for 1950 by $12,826 and for 1951 by $3,826. The government, the prosecutor said, will trace Ruse's actual earnings from the bank, investments and other enterprises.

Ruse, who headed the bank from 1935 to 1952, was charged in 1952 with embezzling $152,117 from the institution. He pleaded no defense and was placed on probation.

The government said he had restored the embezzled funds, which he used to make investments that earned him a profit of about $4,000.

Heart Transplanting Secrets Near Solution

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP) — The 43rd Clinical Congress of the American College of Surgeons today heard results of a study to determine the most suitable experimental animal for heart transplantation as a preliminary to investigating factors influencing survival.

The more than 10,000 delegates Monday were told that experiments with transplanting dogs' hearts indicated that the problem of transplanting a heart from one person to another is close to a solution.

Today's report told of the successful transplanting of hearts from small to large rabbits, with some of them living as long as 576 hours.

The report, by doctors from Tulane University, said that in 11 rabbits with transplanted hearts, the average survival was 130 hours. In 31 fetal and puppy dog hearts transplanted in adult dogs, the survival ranged from 21 to 240 hours with the average of about 75 hours.

Drs. George L. Nardi and Charles W. Lees, both of the Massachusetts General Hospital and the Harvard Medical School, also reported on new diagnostic tests for pancreas disease.

The report said the test depends upon detecting an elevation of protein split ferment called Tyrpsin in the blood serum.

Normal persons have little or no circulating tyrpsin and the report said the elevation of tyrpsin level is believed to result from obstructive process in pancreas combined with an active secretion.

Four doctors reported Monday on new evidence that a human being can develop passive immunity against cancer through the use of cell destroying powers of tumor antibodies.

The doctors said they prepared the serum by removing several cancer lymph lodes from the groin of a 42-year-old man who had lymphatic cancer and injected it into laboratory rabbits. Two weeks later they took the serum from the rabbits and injected it into the cancerous region of the patient. Microscopic tests revealed signs that the tumor cells were dissolved in the areas treated with special serum.

President Eisenhower, in a message read to the meeting, said Americans depend too much on the government and turn to "taxation to supply what initiative once sought out."

Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Meeting Today

WASHINGTON (UP)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd scheduled a surprise conference today on the Middle East and the impact of modern missiles on foreign policy.

Announcement of the meeting was made by the State Department. It said Dulles will meet with Lloyd at 2:15 p.m. e.d.t.

Dulles returned from a short vacation in Canada only Monday night. His only appointment for the day is with Lloyd, who is in this country in connection with the visit of Queen Elizabeth.

Dulles did not schedule his usual Tuesday news conference.

The State Department did not detail what Dulles and Lloyd will talk about. But diplomats said they will discuss the Middle East, Russia's success in launching a satellite, disarmament, and the problems posed by Russia's claimed development of an intercontinental ballistic missile.

Both the United States and Britain are concerned over the uneasy situation in the Middle East. The chief worry is Russia's tough, inflammatory talk against Turkey in the wake of the Soviet satellite launching.

Today's meeting is the first scheduled between Lloyd and Dulles since Russia fired its satellite on Oct. 4. This development has amounted to a serious psychological setback for the Western powers. America's allies are looking to this country for some quick move to reestablish confidence in American leadership.

Leader Breaks Ground Today For Erie Road

ERIE, Pa. (UP)—Gov. George M. Leader will turn a spadeful of earth at nearby Platea today at groundbreaking ceremonies to officially open construction of the 46 million dollar Erie Throughway across Erie County between New York and Ohio.

The brief ceremonies mark the beginning of work on the 46½ mile link to connect the New York Thruway with the Ohio Turnpike system. The superhighway, to be a modern limited access facility, will be part of the interstate road network. Federal money will pay for 90 per cent of its cost.

The governor asserted the freeway also would relieve "devastating traffic congestion" in the city of Erie and allow future development of a North-South limited access route parallel to Route 19 to connect with Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Leader said in a speech prepared for delivery before ranking Erie city, port and harbor officials the highway would be a "tremendous asset" to the industrial growth of the country.

"With the completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Port of Erie, this throughway, linking New York and Ohio, will stand as a monument to the people of this area who had the vision and imagination to spark the campaign for a comprehensive development of this region's resources in partnership with government," Leader said.

Turnpike Take Is Reported Up

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission grossed $3,155,065 last month, a $311,661 increase over September, 1956.

A report from the toll road agency showed September expenses totaled $680,043, down $93,335 from the same month last year.

Ottawa Gives Queen Big Reception; Party In the U. S. Tomorrow

OTTAWA (UP) — Queen Elizabeth II, and her debonair husband Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh, shared the limelight today on the last full day of their visit to Canada.

Wednesday, shortly before noon they will depart by plane for Jamestown and Williamsburg, Va. first stops on a six-day visit to the United States. If the reception there even halfway matches the welcome their Canadian realm accorded them, one thing is sure—the royal couple can return to London Oct. 21, tired but happy after a whale of a party.

This capital city of Canada started off its reception with the reserve of a deb at her first dance, but by the time the Queen opened Parliament Monday, the city was on a real jag.

Guns Boom Salutes

Guns boomed salutes off and on all day long; the carillons in Parliament sounded across the city; and the downtown area was jammed with Canadians waving Union Jacks and sporting badges with pictures of the Queen and the prince.

Both the Queen and Philip called on a neighbor Monday—Hull City, Que. They ended the day with a reception, which seems an inevitable item on royalty's social schedule, and a quiet dinner with Prime Minister and Mrs. John Diefenbaker.

Monday was the couple's greatest day of the visit — a day when their charm, youthful good looks and friendliness captured the hearts of their subjects. They attended the first state dinner of the trip, given for 125 guests at Government House, and a state reception for about 1,000.

Philip and Elizabeth mingled and chatted with guests at the reception at least 45 minutes before leaving.

Highlight of the day was the opening of Parliament — the first time a reigning monarch has presided over Canada's governing body.

The 45 - minute ceremony was filled with pageantry, but it was under circumstances which would have tried lesser souls. Television lights and a Senate chamber filled with about 1,000 persons—265 of them standees — made the temperature in the chamber almost unbearable.

Philip, in the dashing black and gold uniform of a colonel-in-chief of the Royal Canadian Regiment, escorted the Queen to the red velvet-draped throne. He sat beside her during the ceremony.

A couple of times Philip looked solicitously at his wife, when there were long pauses in her speech.

24th Division Goes Into Retirement

ON THE KOREAN TRUCE FRONT (UP) — The U. S. Army's 24th Infantry Division, the first fighting force in the world to serve under the United Nations flag, went into retirement today.

The historic 1st Cavalry absorbed its units and took over its job of manning the front positions along the Korean truce line.

The 24th, born in the early days of World War II and weaned on bullets, bombs and bazookas, fell victim to nuclear - age streamlining of the armed forces.

Charles W. Hagerstrand Elected Director of State Savings League

Charles W. Hagerstrand, executive vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Monessen, today was elected a director of the Pennsylvania Savings and Loan League during its 30th annual meeting at the Hotel Yorktowne in York.

Charles W. Hagerstrand

The Pennsylvania League, with a membership of 711 savings, building and loan associations in all parts of the State, is the largest and oldest trade organization of its kind in the United States.

Hagerstrand, who is serving this year as president of the Monessen Chamber of Commerce, has been engaged in the savings and loan business for the past 11 years. He started with the First Federal as a clerk in 1946, and was promoted to assistant secretary in January, 1947. He has been a member of its board of directors since November, 1947, and became executive vice-president in 1949. He received a graduate diploma from the American Savings and Loan Institute this year.

Prior to his affiliation with the savings and loan association, Hagerstrand was employed by the Hibbs Real Estate and Insurance Agency, Pittsburgh Steel Co., Johnson Lumber Co. and P. Johnson and Company. He served during World War II as a pharmacist mate in the Navy.

Born in Salem, Ohio, on Dec. 23, 1908, Hagerstrand has been active in civic, religious and fraternal affairs in Monessen for a number of years. He is secretary of the Planning Commission and a director of the Salvation Army. He was president of the Civic Center Management Board in 1954.

Hagerstrand is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, having served formerly as a council member and Sunday School teacher. He also holds membership in the Rotary Club, Monessen Lodge, No. 638, Free and Accepted Masons; Valley of Pittsburgh, Scottish Rite Masons; Syria Temple of the Shrine, Pittsburgh; Monessen Lodge, No. 773 Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks; American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The new Pennsylvania League director and his wife, the former Vannas Daugherty, Monessen, have two daughters, Margaret Ann, 10, and Joy Susan, 5. Their home is at 56 Montraver Drive.

FUTURE LIBRARY — This will be the site of the new Monessen Public Library building on Donner Ave., between Third and Fourth Sts. Workmen are dismantling the structures at present. The site was acquired for $34,000.

PRESENT LIBRARY — This three-story brick building on Fifth St., which presently houses the Monessen Public Library, is reportedly worth $30,000.

Slippery Rock in Homecoming

Slippery Rock State Teachers College's annual Homecoming will be held Friday and Saturday. The theme of the two day festivities is announced as "Song Festival."

Bill Lennox of Beaver, general chairman, is planning a full schedule of activities for the week end. A bonfire and coronation of the 1957 queen will take place on Friday evening. Saturday's activities will feature a parade, football game, and a cocoa pour in the afternoon. There will also be a Varsity Club alumni dinner and an informal dance in the evening.

The bonfire and pep rally will begin at 7 p.m. with the coronation of the queen. After the introduction of the coaches and the members of the fall sports' teams, entertainment will be provided by the traditional "Freshmen Stunt."

The parade on Saturday afternoon will feature approximately 30 floats, six marching units, a cavalcade of cars carrying guests, and the queen and her court.

Western Reserve University of Cleveland, Ohio, will be the grid opponent of the Slippery Rock "Rockets" at 2 p.m. Half-time entertainment will be furnished by the high school bands of Penn Township and Mars.

Following, there will be a cocoa and coffee pour in the North Hall lounge. All Alumni lettermen and coaches are invited to a dinner sponsored by Varsity Club at the Legion Hall.

Both the East and West gyms will be the scene of the final Homecoming activity, an informal dance. Two orchestras will provide the music for dancing.

Lester Pearson Awarded Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (UP)—Former Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson today was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for 1957. As usual, the Norwegian Nobel Committee gave no reason for its choice.

The committee also decided not to give any peace prize for 1956, and the amount of money normally awarded will be returned to the Nobel Peace Prize Fund.

Pearson's prize for this year is worth 208,628 Swedish crowns—the equivalent of $40,330.33.

All meetings of the Nobel Peace Prize Committee are secret and the five members—elected by the National Assembly—always refuse to comment on the decision. But political circles here take this year's decision to give the prize to one of the architects of the post-war Atlantic community as a tribute to the ideas which lie behind Western cooperation. These views have been expressed repeatedly by the former Canadian foreign minister.

The peace prize will be presented to Pearson officially at the annual Nobel meeting at Oslo University on Dec. 10. King Olav of Norway will attend the presentation.

Student Speaks To PTA Members

Georgette Vernaccini, a local High School student, will be guest speaker tomorrow evening when the Monessen Parent Teacher Association meets at 8 o'clock in the High School auditorium.

She will tell of her experiences this past summer as an exchange student to Greece under the supervision of the American Field Service. She will display some of the souvenirs of that country, and answer questions from the members.

There will also be a business session and a social hour following the program. Jefferson homeroom mothers will be hostesses.

Plans will be completed for the smorgasbord to be held Oct. 22, and the Tambritzan concert set for Nov. 7.

Croation Society Endorses Public Library Issue

The Monessen Croation Social and Educational Society today announced that it has endorsed the $200,000 Monessen Public Library bond issue which will be voted on in the Nov. 5 general election.

In a resolution adopted Sunday, the society requested "all of its members and friends to exert every effort to make the general public appreciative of the great need for such a progressive step.

The resolution also said "Man is born with an inquisitive mind. Give him the means to satisfy that instinct and you will have progress. Vote 'yes' for our new Public Library."

Club officers Andy Francis, George Mazar and Marko Begg made the resolution public today.

Monessen Store Files Bankruptcy

A bankruptcy notice has been placed on the door of Bayer's men store at Sixth St. and Schoonmaker Ave. by the United States District Court, Western District of Pennsylvania, in Bankruptcy.

The notice said "These premises are now in possession" of the court.

Torrance Closed

Torrance State Hospital has been closed to visitors because of the flu epidemic, it was announced today by Dr. William J. Schilling, superintendent.

W&J College Suspended for Rest of Week

Washington and Jefferson College was closed yesterday for a one-week period as a precautionary measure against the further spread of a virus-type infection which has struck about 175 of the 700-member student body.

In making the announcement, President Boyd C. Patterson said it is not known if the virus is of the Asian-type or not but that most of the cases seem to be mild in nature. The college is scheduled to be re-opened next Monday, at 8 a.m.

Chairman of the W. & J. athletic department, Paul L. Reardon, said this coming Saturday's football game which was to be played against Thiel College at Washington, has been called off.

A lecture by George Kerstein, publisher of The Nation magazine, which was to be held at 10 a.m. has also been cancelled, it was announced.

Child Suffers His Fourth Broken Arm

Last evening he suffered his fourth such fracture this year when he fell while climbing a fence at the Harshman home.

City Will Get All Assets of Library

(Second of a series)

If the voters of Monessen flash the green light at the election on Nov. 5, they will set in motion a program which will give the community an adequate public library, housed in a beautiful new building designed especially for the purpose.

At the election the voters will be asked to approve a city bond issue of $200,000. If a majority votes "Yes", the program will get underway.

According to an agreement worked out between the City Council and the board of directors of the Monessen Civic Library Association, the agency which now provides library service to the community, the city government will take over this responsibility.

Once the bond issue is approved, the Civic Library board has agreed to recommend to the association membership that all of the association's assets be transferred to the city at no cost. These assets are quite considerable. They include:

1. A three-story brick building on Fifth St. which presently houses the library. The market value of this property is said to be over $30,000.

2. A collection of more than 15,000 books and other library equipment. These have an appraised value of about $30,000.

3. Three lots on Donner Ave. between Third and Fourth Sts., making a tract 66 x 100 feet. Acquired at a cost of $34,500, this is the site on which the new building would be constructed.

4. Whatever cash the Library Association may have in its accounts at the time of transfer. This could be as much as $5,000.

Against these assets, the Association owes about $6,000 on a mortgage at the First Federal Savings & Loan Association, which financed purchase of the Donner Ave. site.

Thus, the Civic Library Association is able to give the city a hefty start on the project.

The City Council has agreed, once the bond issue is approved, to construct the new building on the Donner Ave. site using plans now being developed by architects engaged by the Library Association.

The architects are J. Russell Bailey, of Orange, Va., a specialist in library design, and H. Earnest Clark, of Monessen, who will supervise construction under Bailey's direction.

Third class city law requires that the municipal library shall be operated by a board of trustees, consisting of five or seven members, appointed by the council and serving without compensation.

Operating funds would be appropriated annually by the council from the general revenues of the city and disbursed at the discretion of the board of trustees.

What would the operating budget be?

That can hardly be determined accurately before the building is in operation and the trustees have determined the rate at which the library services should be expanded.

The present library is being operated this year on a budget of $12,600. But if the library were now offering facilities and services adequate for a city of Monessen's size, the figure would be considerably higher.

It is probable that the expansion to bring the library up to standard will take place in comfortable stages in balance with the other responsibilities of the city government.

The city seems well able to assume the additional debt of $200,000. At present the total indebtedness is $450,000. The legal limit, based on assessed valuations of taxable property, is about $2,450,000. So after the library bonds are sold the city would still have legal borrowing capacity of about $2 million.

(Tomorrow — The proposed new building.)

Look Who's Good For 'All the People'

THE THEME of the Democratic campaign in Westmoreland County is that the party has been good to "all the people". And the inference is not very subtle that now is the time for "all the people" to be good to everybody on the Democratic ticket.

But one of our chief complaints in this contest is that the people have already been too good to some of these candidates without getting a fair return for their generosity.

A fair example would be David H. Weiss, of Monessen, who is one of the candidates for common pleas judge.

His neighbors in Monessen know very well that Dave Weiss has made a good thing of politics — for himself — for most of his adult life. At the time of his recent appointment as judge to fill a vacancy, he was drawing no fewer than five public salaries. Before he started his day, he had nearly $10,000 a year of easy money in his pocket.

* * *

NOBODY ever got it any easier, even in politics where a fair day's work for a day's pay is not the standard rule. He drew about $5,000 a year as an assistant district attorney without ever prosecuting a case.

He was a solicitor for two school districts, both of which frequently found it necessary to engage special counsel because Mr. Weiss either could not or would not provide the service they needed.

When Mr. Weiss was city solicitor, his own good friend, Mayor Parente, publicly rebuked him for neglecting to attend the meetings of council. When he did attend, it was next to impossible for a member of council to extract from him an opinion on a point of law. And it was common talk at the City Hall that all the legal work was done by the assistant solicitor, who has now suceeded to the solicitorship without an assistant being employed.

In spite of these five jobs, paying him $10,000 a year in salaries and fees, Mr. Weiss found time to pursue what he himself has described as one of the largest private law practices in the county. Somebody obviously was getting the short end of the deal — and it wasn't Dave Weiss.

* * *

WE FIND IT nauseating to have such an individual going about asking for votes because he is good for "all the people". What he really means is that politics has been good to him far beyond his abilities or any service he has rendered, and he wants some more of the same.

And the sad truth is that Dave Weiss is typical of the candidates of the Democratic courthouse machine — or of any other political machine, for that matter. Their concern for the welfare of "all the people" doesn't begin to match their eagerness to keep their noses in the trough.

Good for the people? Heavens to Betsy, the people would be better off if they had never heard of some of these candidates!

Death of a Poet

JOHN DAY, whose tragic death came as such a shock last week, will be missed greatly by readers of The Daily Independent who have for years enjoyed his Saturday pieces on nature for this page.

Writing was a sideline with John, who was a member of a family well known in newspaper circles in Washington County. He worked as a purchasing agent for two state hospitals and had only spare hours for his solitary walks and for writing about them.

But many fulltime writers would give much to be able to use words as John Day used them. He knew his subject well and his pieces were full of the small things of nature which most of us never see because we do not take the time to look around us. And there was the touch of the poet in his prose.

John came to this office occasionally for a chat, and we arranged for him to speak to groups in this area. We knew him as an outgiving person, something even of the hearty extrovert and not at all a man who had come to the end of life's string and might think of cutting it himself.

But John often wrote of nature's skill at camouflage, at making things seem to be what they are not. A poet can sing to others of the beauty and joy of life and yet not care to live it longer himself. Of such paradoxes are the mysteries of nature fashioned.

From London–

Queen Has Vital Role In Britain

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

LONDON — Criticism of the Queen and sometimes of the monarchy itself is good always for a headline in the British press.

But don't be misled. When the young, attractive Elizabeth II is in the United States this week, Americans can again take her to their hearts in the knowledge that while at home she is occasionally bela-bored by the few she is still beloved by the many.

Mr. Drummond

The personal shafts directed at the Queen and at the royal household, from 33-year-old John Edward Poynder-Griff, second Baron Altrincham, who says he wants to help, to Britain's angry young playright, John Osborne, who says he wants to hurt, are harmless, healthy and perhaps useful.

But when Americans have the radiant Elizabeth in their midst in Williamsburg, Va., and in Washington and New York or watch her on television, they needn't feel that she is about to become unemployed or that the institution of the monarchy is in declining favor over here. There is no such evidence.

Real Human Being

Actually the personal criticism of the Queen's English — too much of a monotone, too expressionless — of her passionate interest in horses and of her evident disinterest in the arts, makes her seem more of a human being to many and has almost certainly increased her popularity.

There are, of course, serious and sober criticisms of the functioning of the royal household, the Queen's advisers and staff, which have considerable support. If Lord Altrincham had not punctuated his original article with such phrases about her speech sounding like "a priggish schoolgirl" and "a pain in the neck" his considered comments on the shortcomings of Buckingham Palace would have won wider endorsement.

There are many Britons who agree that the public functions and the presentation parties of the court portray a "social lopsidedness" which gives a false picture of Britain today.

Britons agree that the personnel of the Queen's advisers and staff is drawn from much too limited a cross section of the nation and that if the monarch is successfully to symbolize the Commonwealth and Empire, 'the royal household should not be drawn from the English alone.

Many Britons agree that the Queen's speech writers write her unduly vacuous speeches and I have heard it suggested that Elizabeth deliberately reads them with an empty expression in mild protest against their being so empty in content!

These are criticisms which a conservative newspaper like the Sunday Times considers entirely proper to make since they concern the monarchy in its public aspects rather than in its private aspects. It is entirely possible that these criticisms will be heeded. One is already. For several months now the Queen has been giving more small luncheon and dinner parties for the express purpose of meeting and talking with a far wider range of British people than in the past, including union leaders, top civil servants, artists, actors, editors.

Americans will realize that the Queen herself can alter the functioning of the royal household only subtly and indirectly. She is the ceremonial head of the state and any tendency on her part to inject her views in the slightest way into the nation's public affairs and political life — as many feared King Edward before he resigned was intent upon doing — would bring immediate repercussions.

Speeches All Written

It is not just the Queen's address opening Parliament that is written by or approved by the government in office. (The Queen reads as good a speech for the Labor government as she does for the Tory government.) She never makes informal remarks on any public occasion and all her speeches, however brief and perfunctory, while she is in the United States will have been prepared for her and read line for line without change.

This is no reflection on the Queen's capacity to make a speech on her own. It simply reflects the completely non-political role the monarchy plays. In this sense Queen Elizabeth is the highest civil servant in the British government and her duty is to carry out policy, not to make it.

Americans who may be seeing her for the first time will find that she carries out her duties with grace, charm and poise — a bright star in the brighter Britain.

And don't think that the Royal Family, even though the appropriated budget for the royal family and household runs to $1,282,500, really costs the British taxpayer a penny. The Royal Family is the greatest boon to British tourism since the invention of the steamship and more than earns its way.

Merry-Go-Round–

Near East Is Key to Peace

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — In any "reappraisal" of American foreign policy, no matter how "agonizing," we have to face the fact that the Near East today is the most explosive area in the world. Anything can happen there. When and if it happens, the flame could reduce the world to a cinder.

Mr. Pearson

A move by the Turkish Army on Aleppo, Syria, which almost took place six weeks ago, could be the Sarajevo to War III. Or war could be sparked by a Syrian move to take over Jordan, acting covertly for Moscow. World War III, however, would not be a long, drawn-out affair, fought in trenches and foxholes. It would be over in weeks or days, and there might not be much left except the smoking ruins of civilization.

That's why Khrushchev's blunt warning that "if war breaks out we are near Turkey and you are not" is so important. It's also why the equally blunt warning of the State Department that "despite distances he (Khrushchev) should be under no illusion that the United States, Turkey's friend and ally, takes lightly its obligation under the North Atlantic Treaty."

In other words, the chips are down. The two biggest nations in the world have served notice on each other that one move by the other means war.

Moves Could Spark War

Having just come back from this crucial area, I can report that the chance of a covert move is strong. It might be made by agents presumably acting for the United States. Right now, 10 Syrians are about to go on trial in Damascus for allegedly conspiring with members of the U. S. Embassy against the pro-Russian Syrian military regime. I do not believe they did so, but a great many Arabs believe otherwise. If such an agent assassinated the leader of the pro-Russian Syrian regime — and assassination is easy in Arab countries — it might touch the match to the war we want to avoid.

Or if King Hussein of Jordan, friend of the United States, should be assassinated by Syrian or Palestinian agents, it might also supply the match. Hussein's grandfather was killed by such an assassin because he wanted to make peace with Israel, and there are 400,000 Palestinian refugees in Jordan today who hate the King, plus 400,000 more Palestinians who are not refugees but also oppose the King.

If he topples, his shaky kingdom unquestionably would be united to Syria to extend the Russian bloc right down to the Gulf of Aqaba near the Suez Canal and not far from oil-rich Saudi Arabia. It might also mean a Russian-blessed union between pro-Russian Syria and pro-Russian Egypt by absorbing Jordan between them.

Or again the assassination of King Saud might supply the match. Two attempts on his life have already been made this year. He is surrounded by Egyptian-Syrian advisers. His own brother is pro-Egyptian.

Will We Fight for Oil?

Reason these incidents might involve the United States is, first, the "Eisenhower Doctrine," which served notice that intrusion on these areas is tantamount to war.

Reason for the doctrine is oil — 70 per cent of the world's known resources. With that oil in Russian hands, Moscow eventually would control western Europe, thereby undoing years of American effort, millions in Marshall Plan aid, and carefully built-up NATO protection from Communism.

The United States would probably fight in order to keep Near East oil out of Russian hands. And Russia says, in effect, that it too would fight if Turkey starts any move to prevent that oil from getting into Russian hands.

That was virtually what Khrushchev spelled out in his blunt warning that Turkey "would not last 24 hours."

Turkey is the initial key to war and peace. Sitting astride the Bosporous, blocking Russian egress from the Black Sea, coveted by the Czars for centuries, Turkey has been bolstered by the Truman Doctrine. But leapfrogging right over Turkey, Russia has now built up a new satellite-ally in Syria, where it has dumped more Czechoslovak arms than the Syrian Army could use for 10 years — a potential supply base for Russian volunteers on a drive toward the oil of the Near East.

There was a time, a few years ago, when our warning to Russia would have stopped further intrusion. But today Russia has the ICBM, the earth satellite, and is playing from strength.

That's why Foreign Minister Gromyko laughed to friends in New York when he reported on John Foster Dulles's warning to go slow in the Near East. That is also why we need what Mr. Dulles once called an "agonizing reappraisal" of foreign policy.

In the Near East we have the possible alternatives of going back to full reliance on John L. Lewis and his coal miners for the fuel of Europe; a crash program to develop atomic energy for industrial purposes, which would take five to ten years; or a settlement of the French-Algerian dispute in order to tap Algeria's promising oil resources.

But in the long run and in the rest of the world, we face the alternatives of a showdown of force against Russia or a new policy of peace with Russia. These are the problems involved in reappraising our outmoded foreign policy. In future columns I'll try to propose some possible solutions.

E. Germany in Trouble, Money Switch Shows

By CHARLES M. McCANN

East Germany's sudden exchange of old currency for new is a sign of mounting economic trouble in the Communist world.

Officially, the exchange was made necessary because West German "monopolists and militarists" were using the East German mark for speculation in currency and for espionage.

Actually, the switch is likely to mean a gigantic repudiation of the old currency which will cost East Germans billions of dollars.

Under the currency switch which the East German puppet government announced without previous warning, the country's 18 million people were permitted to exchange 300 marks in old currency for 300 marks in the new currency.

$72 Per Person

Officially, this gives each person the equivalent of $72 in ready cash.

All old currency above 300 marks is to be put into bank accounts which, officially, will be credited to holders of the old currency.

But in the first place, the East German mark is worth only a fraction of its official value. It is supposed to be equal in value to the West German mark, which is worth 24 cents. Actually, it took four East German marks to buy one West German mark.

It is quite likely to develop that East Germans never will get back more than 300 marks worth of their money. For there is a little-remembered law in East Germany forbidding any person to hold more than 300 marks in currency.

The statement that the change was made necessary by the speculative and espionage activities of West Germans is an obvious fiction. It is estimated that the total of East German marks held in West Berlin, the chief exchange market, was only about one million dollars.

Troubles Kept Silent

We naturally hear a great deal about Soviet Russia's successes—the Sputnik earth satellite, the testing of an intercontinental ballistic missile, the penetration of the Middle East. We hear little about the troubles of Russia and its satellites right now.

But Russia had great trouble with its harvest, due largely to inefficiency. In July, Russia had to scrap its current five - year plan of economic development in favor of a new seven-year plan. This was an admission that the goals for the five-year plan could not be met. It also was a tacit admission that the drastic decentralization of industrial control, the brain-child of Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev, had caused extreme disorganization.

One notable thing about the currency exchange is that it emphasizes the complete contrast in conditions in East and West Germany.

Free West Germany is about the most prosperous country in Europe.

Ode to 'Sputnik' for National Poetry Day

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—Once again, it's "National Poetry Day."

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce, in its list of "special days, weeks, and months," so designates Oct. 15 and gives as the day's purpose: "To promote the appreciation of poetry in schools, colleges, churches, clubs, radio and press."

All right, the press must do its duty. And it must stress a topic of the day—like the first man-made satellite. Let us, then, move forward to the tune of an old song. Remember, please, to deal a sledge-hammer blow to the first syllable of each line. Ready? One, two, three, four. . .

Glow little Sputnik, glimmer, glimmer,
Feed us the text for a spaceship primer;
Beam on the earth with a double whammy,
Make like a moon over old Miami.

Beep! In your meteoric glory,
Beep! In your polar tra-jec-tory—
Beep with a beep that is catalytic
For better mousetraps satellitic.

Whiz over black and white world nations,
Pond'ring celestial integrations;
Shine over Ike and Orval Faubus,
Skim milky-way whitewash, and daub us.

Beep, little Sputnik, orbit, orbit,
Sing us a peace bit, not a war bit;
Let Washington with its headlines splashy
Ruminate on a program crashy.

Shine on the Army and the Navy;
Shine on the budgetary gravy—
Bop with the music of the spheroids,
Show the futility of mere woids.

Hang in the sky like a global mobile,
Scorning us earthkind, you cosmic schmobile!
Will your force that is centri-fugal
Make Mars smile or blow on his bugle?

Up in the heavens wide and starry,
Shot from the Steppes all commissary,
Will your diurnal time variation
Accelerate or creep like inflation?

Sputnik, shine with a spooning glitter,
Make lovers' hearts go patter-pitter;
Please don't tell us that love's nogudnik
By the light of the silvery Sputnik.

Let's all gather round and sing. . .
The Sputnik roundelay.
(Hey!).

How Noted Librarian Sees Monessen Project

(Editor's Note—The author of the following letter is one of the nation's best known public library administrators. He has visited Monessen and is familiar with the existing public library.)

To the Editor:

Your City Council has shown enlightened leadership in proposing that Monessen's public library be made a municipal operation. I greatly hope that the voters will approve Council's proposal when they go to the polls.

Andrew Carnegie certainly would have endorsed the proposal. Years ago he said something to this effect: a public library is an essential part of the public educational system; it should be owned and supported by the public just as the public schools are operated.

Private associations throughout the United States have performed valuable services in establishing public libraries and demonstrating their value to the community. In almost every case, however, the time comes when the public demand for books and library services grows beyond the resources of private associations.

From all I can learn, I believe that Monessen has reached that stage. The Civic Library Association has so thoroughly proved the need, that public support and operation are now required to expand and maintain the library.

Pittsburghers may envy the people of Monessen in the prospect of having the new library on a downtown site. Pittsburgh's library is three miles from the business area. Every experienced librarian would, I am sure, say that you have chosen wisely in selecting the Donner Ave. location.

It is refreshing to learn that Monessen's bonded debt is so small that it can easily afford the new library building.

I hope that I shall read that on Nov. 5 the people of Monessen voted to accept Council's proposal, for it is only in this way that the growing demand for library services can be satisfied.

Ralph Munn, Director
Carnegie Library
Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania

Peggy Ann Oleksak Is Wed

Is Bride of L. Kotch Here This Morning

Peggy Ann Oleksak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Oleksak of Rostraver St., and Leonard Kotch, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Kotch Jr. of 1308 Rostraver St., were united in marriage this morning, Oct. 15.

They exchanged their nuptial vows in the most Holy Name of Jesus Church. The Rev. Joseph Gajdosik read the lines of the double ring service at 10 o'clock before an altar arranged with bouquets of white chrysanthemums, white gladiolus and ferns. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Escorted down the crash lined aisle by her father, the bride wore a gown of imported pure silk peau de soie and French Alencon lace. The bodice was fitted with long pointed sleeves and a row of tiny covered buttons down the back ending in a huge bustle-like bow. A sabrina neckline of lace was trimmed in pearls and crystal sequins. The very full skirt with French Alencon lace appliques, extended to a full court train.

Coronation Crown

Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a coronation crown of pearls, rhinestones and crystal sequins. Her only jewelry was a pair of pearl earrings and she carried a Prayer Book covered in white satin with satin shower streamers knotted with lilies of the valley. The Book was the same one carried by her mother at her wedding.

As maid of honor, Sylvia Ann Bellora, a friend of the bride, wore a full length gown of gold peau de crystal, which was styled with a fitted bodice, bertha collar and full skirt accented with extra back fullness. Her velvet tiara and wrist length gloves were of a matching shade.

Emerald Green

Elaine Weiss and Josephine Peake, bridesmaids wore ensembles of emerald green styled identically to that worn by the maid of honor. All three carried bouquets of bronze and yellow fugi mums intermingled with fall leaves.

John E. Kotch III, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Lawrence Oleksak Jr., brother of the bride, and Thomas Peake.

The mother of the bride wore a mink colored satin suit with beige accessories, and the mother of the bridegroom selected emerald green with beige accessories. Their corsages were of bronze and gold pompons.

Immediately after the wedding ceremony breakfast was served at the Slovak Home to members of the bridal party. Later this afternoon a reception will be held at the same place.

Wedding guests are from Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio and New York as well as area communities.

When the newlyweds leave this evening for a motor tour of the eastern states, the bride will be wearing a black wool sheath dress with a black and white tweed jacket, white hat and black accessories. When they return they will reside in their newly constructed home at 1279 Rosecrest Ave.

Mr. and Mrs. Kotch are both graduates of Monessen High School. Mrs. Kotch was formerly employed in a clerical capacity at Pittsburgh Steel Co. Mr. Kotch attended California State Teachers College and Robert Morris School of Accounting, Pittsburgh. He is employed in the industrial engineering department at the Allenport plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Following the wedding rehearsal last night buffet refreshments were served at the Oleksak home. At this time the bride presented her attendants with wallets and earrings, and the bridegroom gave the male members of the party men's jewelry cases.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

Irish Fans Can Now Relax Until—

Notre Dame fans in the Monongahela Valley (and they are legion) can now sit back and relax until those big ones with Oklahoma and Michigan State . . . The anxiety of whether the Fighting Irish had come back from the dismal 1956 season is gone following the Notre-Dame-of-old comeback win over Army . . . It certainly was a thrilling game and tailor-made for television with the lightning like Army touchdown at the beginning of the game, Notre Dame quickly tying the count, a 14-point Army lead erased, the brilliant touchdown run by ND fullback Nick Pietrosante, the suspense of the possible tying extra point by the Irish and the letdown (for South Bend fans) when it failed and finally the complete and perfect ending to a perfect game—a field goal to clinch the victory in the fading minutes . What more could you ask for one football game?

* * *

Attending the Steeler-Cardinal game in Pittsburgh Sunday was a group of Monessen firemen who watched the "new" Steelers post their second victory . . . Local observers at the game noted that surprisingly enough the passing wasn't as sharp as the running attack against the Cards, instead of vice-versa as in the other games to date . . . How about the tackle at a Missouri high school who goes a neat (?) 311 pounds and is considered one of the mainstays of the team . . . That Oklahoma U. win streak is really something but the Sooners are still a long way off from the all-time high posted by a Shelbyville, Tenn. high school team which has won 78 straight games without a loss!

Seven District Teams in WPIAL Races

Seven district teams remain in the WPIAL races, five in Class B, one in Class A and one in the Double-A competition . . . The "Bees" are Avella, Bethlehem Joint, Centerville, Chartiers and West Greene . . . California is the lone A survivor while Brownsville, with two one-point victories in two starts, stays in the AA race . . . Washington had been in the race but a 20-14 loss to Mt. Lebanon Friday turned the trick . . . The high school season is going into its sixth week and most schools have played only three games, like the Monessen Greyhounds . . . Charleroi and Bellmar have been the most fortunate of district schools, each owning one postponement but showing four games completed.

That must have been quite a sight at Arden Downs over the week end as harness racing returned to the area and wasn't it only justice that Del Miller, of Meadowlands Farm (near Washington) who was the driving force behind staging the races at Arden, should win the feature race, a $12,745 special, handling the reins of Thorpe Hanover . . . Former New York Yankee outfielder great Charley Keller had a trotter entered in the day-long events and Gay Yankee made a good showing, copping an award . . . It was the first harness race in Pennsylvania for 40 years . . . Shades of David Harum! . . . Congratulations to Marion's Jim Hoffman on being named assistant cage coach at Bellmar High.

Shame Cougars - Bridgers Deadlocked

We hated to see Charleroi and Ambridge tie in that terrific battle the Cougars and Bridgers staged at Charleroi Friday night for as most fans agree, we feel two standout contenders for the WPIAL title were eliminated and unless Clairton shows its heels to both (they are on the Clairton schedule) will probably be better teams than the one finally wearing the crown . . . There's an outside chance the two rivals could meet again, providing no WPIAL team finishes unbeaten and all but Charleroi and Ambridge suffer losses . . . This column's condolences to the Dolfi family and Mrs. Ernest Dolfi on the death of Ernie Dolfi, band director of Bellmar High and instrumental music instructor in the Bellmarette Schools . . . Under his direction the Bellmar band had become one of the finest in the district.

Football Moving Into Defense Cycle of Play

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Football, whether you talk about the college or pro game, has moved into a new cycle of play today in which the keynote is defense and ball control.

Gone, on the whole, are the tremendous scores of the past few years. Gone, too, to a great extent is the wide open passing game which marked the height of the T-formation craze.

All of which means that the defense finally has caught up to the offense.

"That's the way the game goes," explains Buff Donelli, the Columbia coach. "When the T grabbed hold, it took a while for everybody to learn to use it—and stop it. Now we're in for a new era until somebody comes up with something new. Then the game will break wide open again."

NFL Scores Less

Professional scoring, which was reaching stratospheric proportions at one stage, is indicative of the change.

Last year, the Chicago Bears led the National Professional League with 363 points, which was an average of 30 per game. This year they are averaging 14 2-3 points per game. The New York Giants, who were the league champions, led the Eastern Conference with 264 points last year. That's a 22-point per game average. This season they're averaging 17 points for three games.

Baltimore came up with part of the answer to such scoring when it devised a four - man defensive line composed entirely of tackles. These are Gino Marchetti, 240 pounds; Art Donovan, 265; "Big Daddy" Lipscomb, 285, and Don Joyce, 250 pounds. Even a veteran pro line finds it extremely difficult, if not impossible, to stop this kind of tonnage when it crashes in to flatten the ball carrier or pursue the passer.

Pass Defense Expands

Then there has been an accent on scientific pass defense, and the pros have developed ball - hawks like Jack Christiansen and Yale Lary, of Detroit, Lindon Crow of the Cardinals and Emlen Tunnell of the Giants who make it tantamount to giving up possession if you try to throw in their territory.

This works out the same way in college, where much time has been devoted to defense. Consider once was known as the aerial circus of the collegiate gridiron. The Texas Aggies Saturday threw two and completed both but let it go at that in beating Houston. Arkansas and TCU tossed only eight passes each.

Missouri gained only 10 yards passing in upsetting SMU, which heaved for only 42 yards. Clemson picked up only seven yards passing, throwing only five, as it topped Virginia.

Less Pass Offense

LSU threw only seven passes in upsetting Georgia Tech. Duke used only eight passes in stopping Rice; Oklahoma passed for only 24 yards in dropping Texas; South Carolina threw only three in whipping Furman and Auburn tossed only seven to balance the attack in beating Kentucky.

The loser always could be counted on to throw and throw. But Nebraska only pitched five in being badly beaten by Pitt and William & Mary passed only eight times in being flattened by Penn State.

Midgets Resume Tonight

Jefferson Can Clinch '57 Title

Idled for two weeks, Monessen's Midget League elevens hope to get back into action tonight on what ordinarily would have been the final night of play on the 1957 card.

Instead, it is the opening night of the second half of play for when the postponements came due to the flu the season was at exactly the half-way mark in the schedule of six games.

Tonight's card calls for Jefferson, currently in first place with a 3-3-0 mark to battle second-place Lincoln with a 2-1-1 record. Vocational, the 1956 champion, currently in last place with a mark of 0-3-0 will battle Frank-Lin owning a 1-2-0 mark.

Every game to date has been exciting, with most of them being won by a margin of victory of one point.

Could Clinch Title

Jefferson has disposed of Vocational, Frank-Lin and Lincoln in that order and another win over Lincoln tonight would clinch the 1957 title for the Jeffs what with only two postponed games remaining after tonight's contests, and a 4-0 record, (if they win).

Should Jefferson lose to the Lincolns it will be up to President Allen Kline and Commissioner Armand Niccolai to decide when the remaining games will be played, although they will probably be set for succeeding Tuesdays.

Should Jefferson pick up the marbles tonight then you can count on at least the All-Stars vs. League champion game before the season is over.

Bellmar-Rostraver 'Big One' Thursday

As of today the Bellmar - Rostraver annual grid clash, most important game on the schedule for both teams, is all set for Thursday night at the new Rostraver Stadium, located adjacent to the new junior high school.

There could be a change however, if the flu bug, which up until the past weekend has practically ignored Bellmar and hadn't bothered Rostraver too much, (much to the joy of Coaches Wade Bender of the Leopards and Bap Manzini of Bellmar) decides to make itself known.

Last night, however, the picture changed at Bellmar with an even dozen players not reporting for drills and several others just recovering from the illness.

Will Know Tomorrow

"If this keeps up we'll have to talk about a postponement," Manzini stated this morning, "but I won't know until tomorrow when I see how many show up for drills."

Among the regulars affected at Bellmar were halfback Dennis Swiantek, end Percy Cranford, tackle Gary Grant and back Milt Dupree.

From Rostraver comes word that everything is set for the game despite some flu trouble.

Officials there stated this morning that "we hope to play the game Thursday as planned unless something comes up between now and then."

Both the 'Canes and Leopards are suffering from staleness. Bellmar's last start having been almost two weeks ago against German and Rostraver not seeing action since the California contest, also two weeks ago.

West Newton - Perry Set for Saturday

West Newton's game with Perry originally carded for Thursday night has been postponed until Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock due to (yep, the flu) epidemic conditions at Perry. The game will be played on the West Newton field under portable lights. Principal George Bulazo announced this morning.

QB Earl Morrall Only Disabled Steeler Gridder

PITTSBURGH (UP)—The Pittsburgh Steelers, following a day off Monday, begin practice today for a game next Sunday with the New York Giants at Yankee Stadium.

The prospects were the Steelers would go into the game with almost a full team. The only player disabled in Sunday's contest with the Chicago Cardinals was Earl Morrall. The flashy quarterback pinched a nerve in the final seconds of play. X-rays failed to show a fracture.

He will undergo treatment for the next few days.

With coach Buddy Parker bringing his whirlwind trading session to an apparent halt, fans were taking stock today of how the Steelers stand on future draft choices.

The records show that seven draft picks for 1958 and four for 1959 have been bartered away.

The Steelers on the other hand, will pick up the Philadelphia Eagle No. 9 choice next year in exchange for tackle Bob Gaona.

Panthers First in Lambert Ratings

NEW YORK (UP)—Nex Saturday's Army-Pittsburgh game will have a strong influence on the race for the Lambert Trophy.

The Panthers averaged 91 points in the voting. The Cadets dropped to second with a 8.7-point average. Navy was third, followed by Syracuse, Princeton, Penn State, Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Boston College and Yale.

Flu Forces Wash-Jeff Game Postponement

Washington and Jefferson's football game with Thiel College, scheduled for Saturday at College Field, Washington has been called off, it was announced by Athletic Director Paul Reardon of W. & J.

The game was postponed because of the virus infection which has swept through the college, causing it to be closed for a week. No date has been set for re-playing the grid contest.

Blackhawks Ailing But Want to Play; Still Uncertain

According to the situation at 10 o'clock this morning Monessen High School's Greyhound gridders will host Redstone High School here Friday night in the first start for the locals in two weeks.

There is a catch, however, just as there has been for every game scheduled for the past two weeks in the district.

Monessen High Athletic Director Everett Pancook communicated with Coach Joe Bosnic, of Redstone, who also serves as athletic director there, and despite the fact that 12 players are ill with the flu and his center reportedly having pneumonia, Bosnic said the Blackhawks will be here Friday.

Bosnic explained his action by stating that "we feel we should play as many of the games as scheduled as possible to avoid a 'pile-up' of postponements at the end of the season."

Want It Settled

Local school athletic heads are anxious to get the situation as to who the Greyhound's foe will be Friday settled once and for all for a game with Hempfield is "hanging in the air."

Hempfield has agreed to play Monessen Friday night to make up an earlier postponement if Redstone cannot make the game Friday night.

"As of this morning we will have to say our opponent Friday night will be Redstone and even though it must get aggravating for the fans we still have to say we won't know for sure until tomorrow or the next day until we see if the flu worsens at Redstone," Pancook stated this morning.

Meanwhile, Coach Armand Niccolai of the 'Hounds is trying to get "the kinks out" of a squad which was idled for two weeks in a row and no full-scale drills for almost three weeks. "It's almost like starting all over again," Niccolai said today.

Stengel Sees Yanks Better Than Ever With Farm Help

NEW YORK (UP)—Casey Stengel, just about ready to call it a season, prepared to head back home to California today after assuring one and all the Yankees will be better than ever next year because of a promising group of farm hands.

Stengel named 10 newcomers whom he felt could help him regain the world championship at his final press conference of the campaign Monday.

He mentioned catcher John Blanchard, pitchers Mark Freeman and Ryne Duren, first baseman Marv Throneberry, outfielder Norm Siebern and infielder Fritz Brickell from Denver in the American Assn.; pitcher Jim Coates, infielder Dick Sanders and first baseman John Jaciuk of Richmond in the International League; and outfielder Deron Johnson of Binghamton in the Eastern League.

"This club hasn't gone to the woods," Stengel insisted. "Don't let anyone try to tell you that this ship has sunk."

The two players regarded to have the best chance of making the Yankees next year are Siebern, who was with the club during part of the 1956 season, and Duren, who had a 13-2 record with 116 strikeouts at Denver.

Hank Greenberg Learns Fate Today

CLEVELAND (UP) — General Manager Hank Greenberg, whose status with the Cleveland Indians is considered precarious, will learn within a few days whether he will keep or lose his job.

Greenberg's future with the Indians will be decided at a board of directors' meeting that probably will be held later this week.

Board Chairman William R. Daley said the meeting is being called for "a general discussion about what will be done or can be done to improve the welfare of the team, and while I don't want to pinpoint it as a Greenberg meeting, I am sure his status will be discussed."

Michelosen Weathers Critics' Hot Blasts, Now Back on Top Again

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 14 — If ever a coach was blasted for a team's performance, John Michelosen was after Pitt's 26-0 defeat to Oklahoma. The fans did not spare the rod. Some of the writers blasted his offense and made other remarks which were unfair.

Silent John did not say a thing but now his team has won three straight and began preparation Monday for Saturday's game against Army which will probably decide the Eastern Championship.

After the Oklahoma game, Art Rooney, president of the Pittsburgh Steelers said, "Do not worry about John. He will do okay." The colorful Steeler owner calls Michelosen the "best college coach in the country."

Loyalty Big Asset

"The biggest thing about John is his loyalty," Rooney recently commented. Michelosen coached the Steelers for four years before coming to Pitt as an assistant coach. "I have had coaches who become experts on World War II strategy, the stock market and American literature after winning three games. I had to make an appointment to see them." Stopping for a second, Art continued, "John was always the same, win or lose. Pitt is mighty lucky to have him and I think they know it."

In these days of coaches breaking their contracts, Michelosen will not even talk about another job. When he was with the Steelers, he was offered the job as a coach at a large university. He would not even consider talking to the school since he was already under contract. Last winter, a pro team offered him a fabulous contract but John would not even talk to them, since he had another year on his present contract.

The former Pitt star does not like to compare players. "Why should I say one player is better than the other when both gave me 100 percent effort. It just is not fair to either boy."

Michelosen's record is now 17-8-1. His teams have gone to two bowls and have lost six of their eight games to teams finishing in the Top Ten.

This season, Michelosen started with just ten lettermen. The squad has been hit by injuries but despite this, the Panthers are now on the verge of another winning season. The toughest part of the schedule is ahead with teams like Army, Notre Dame, and Penn State waiting to ambush Pitt. It is doubtful if Pitt can win seven games but if it does, Michelosen will have done a remarkable job.

Like Old Man River, Michelosen just keeps going.

Cubs Sign Klein, Lee Ballanfant

CHICAGO (UP) — The Chicago Cubs signed Lou Klein as manager of their Fort Worth farm club.

The Cubs also signed former National League Umpire Lee Ballanfant as a scout in Texas.

Klein has been a manager in the Cub chain since 1955. Last year he managed Memphis of the Southern Association and finished second.

Ballanfant, a native of Dallas, broke in as a National League umpire in 1936. He worked in five World Series and four All - Star games.

Opening Day Records Set by Bow Hunters

The opening day of the first any deer season October 5 in Pennsylvania for modern-day bow hunters, was an action-packed record-breaker. The day saw the largest turnout of archers on any date since 1951, when the bow and arrow enthusiasts enjoyed their first separate buck season. Undoubtedly the exceptional number was due in part to the fact the season opened on Saturday. The weather was ideal, but underfoot conditions was widely described as "dry and noisy", which is not conducive to stalking.

Game Protectors estimated the statewide kill by archers on the first day of their exclusive season was between 200 and 225 deer. This is far in excess of the bag on any previous opener in this state, but it is not viewed as any great reduction in the herd. The proportion of bucks to does will not be known until the deer kill reports are received, when a break-down will be made.

Numerous bow and arrow hunters said they passed up opportunities to shoot antlerless deer early in the season, waiting for a buck with trophy antlers. If unsuccessful they " might take any kind of a deer later in the season", they said. A common bow hunter comment was, "I had shooting but missed". The increase in the number of archers last Saturday was estimated, in the better deer territory, as two to three times greater in comparison with opening day 1956.

Field officers of the Game Commission described the behavior of the bow and arrow hunters as "generally good". A few Game Law violators were apprehended, however. Some archers "stretched" the hunting hours too far, and there were apprehensions for spotlighting deer while in possession of a bow before the opening hour. One man, anxious for a first-kill prize, shot a deer with a firearm, then forced an arrow into the bullet hole to make it appear the animal was arrow-killed.

Three non-fatal accidents, all self-inflicted, were reported early in the bowmen's 1957 deer season.

Bow and arrow deer hunting continues to be fairly heavy during this full week of the season. Saturday, October 12, the last day of the current season, will probably find another record turnout of arrow-toting white-tail hunters. Rain in northwest, southern and some eastern counties, early this week will provide quieter conditions underfoot, a necessity in the stealthy hunting method used by bowmen.

State wildlife authorities recommend that archers consider hunting near urban localities, on woodlots near agricultural land not classed as prime deer range. In such territory many a fine buck sporting large antlers — fat does too — will be found; often much nearer home than the heavily wooded, mountain areas customarily hunted.

Archers who bagged deer are reminded to report their kill, in the required manner, to the Game Commission at Harrisburg, within five days after the close of the season in which the animal was taken.

Brennan Tabs Irish As 'Good--Not Great'

CHICAGO (UP)—Terry Brennan sizes up his Notre Dame football team as "good but not great" and with the worst yet to come.

The youthful coach reminded his followers that a rough road lies ahead on the schedule and he cautioned Irish backers not to get any notions of an immediate return to the oldtime football glory.

"We're in a happy position now and our team is much better than last year," he said. "But by no means does it indicate Notre Dame is back."

Brennan made his first appearance as a victorious coach in almost two years before a Chicago Quarterback Club lunch Monday.

"And it feels good, let me tell you," he said. "I always felt we'd get going. I'm thankful that the Supreme Court didn't repeal the law of averages."

Although Brennan warned of the rough competition ahead, he still basked in the glow of last Saturday's 23-21 triumph over Army when Monty Stickles' field goal won the game.

"Just think, if that kick was off the mark, I could be a bum instead of a hero," Brennan joked.

He said he was happy with the team's performance from the season's start, when the Irish beat Indiana and then Purdue.

"The team is in the best shape it's ever been and it's a fighting club that refuses to quit," he said. "The Army win was a real shot in the arm that should keep the boys' morale up for the remaining games."

New NBA Prexy Asks Calling Off Of 'Title' Bout

RACINE, Wis. (UP) — Gilbert Jackson, newly - elected president of the National Boxing Assn., has asked the Massachusetts Boxing Commission to call off the scheduled fight between Tony DeMarco and Virgil Akins that's being billed as a championship bout.

"It's out of order," fired Jackson in a blistering letter to Harry Lamar Monday that labeled as "ridiculous" Lamar's contention that the Oct. 29 fight will be for the vacated welterweight title.

"This is an utter, absolute violation of NBA rules," said Jackson, "and it appears to me to be strictly a local promotion to shoo-in DeMarco as champion." The fight is scheduled for Boston, DeMarco's home town.

Jackson said the NBA Executive Committee agreed in September to "sponsor" an elimination tourney among the four top contenders in the welterweight division if champion Carmen Basilio defeated Ray Robinson to become the middleweight titleholder.

"Massachusetts was represented at that meeting," Jackson said. "Since that time, I personally wired each of the four top contenders to learn if he would take part in such a tournament.

"I got yes answers from all but DeMarco, who didn't even reply," said Jackson. The other contenders are Isaac Logart, Vince Martinez and Gil Turner. Akins was fifth in the latest NBA ratings.

"How in heaven's name can they pick a fifth-rater and call it a title fight," said Jackson.

Flu Postpones Dukes' Opening Cage Drills

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A flu epidemic has forced Duquesne University basketball coach Dudey Moore to postpone start of practice until next week.

Baseball Playing's Over But Trading In 'Warm Up' Stage

DETROIT (UP) Baseball is completed for the year but the trade talking season is just in its "warming up" period, Detroit Tiger General Manager Johnny McHale said today.

McHale brushed aside Chicago White Sox Vice President Charles Comiskey's talk about obtaining Harvey Kuenn or Charley Maxwell.

"He's been talking about Kuenn for a month," McHale said. "But all he wants to give up are second liners like Sammy Esposito, when Chuck starts including the names of Minnie Minoso, Nellie Fox and Bill Pierce, we'll start getting down to business.

"After all, McHale laughed, "it's about time they gave us Pierce back—he's been on loan a long time." The Pierce trade was probably the worst ever pulled by Detroit. The Tigers obtained catcher Aaron Robinson, who didn't last, for the slick southpaw.

McHale said he wouldn't trade any players who had a bad year this season just to trade them. Kuenn was among the Tigers who had poor seasons, hitting below .300 for the first time in his major league career.

"When we trade, it's going to be to help the club," McHale emphasized.

He said Detroit's chief interest is in Billy Martin of Kansas City, Al Smith of Cleveland, a first baseman to spell Ray Boone and perhaps an outfielder. The fourth-place Tigers also are weak behind the plate.

McHale said Detroit was long on pitchers and that the hurlers were the Tigers' top trade bait. The A's want southpaw Billy Hoeft for Martin.

Chisox Add Two Rookies for '58

CHICAGO (UP) — The Chicago White Sox added two rookies to their roster today, but Vice President Charles Comiskey said he would continue trade talks with four teams and indicated he probably would make at least one deal in the near future.

It was believed Comiskey sought outfielders Bill Tuttle or Charlie Maxwell or infielder Harvey Kuenn from Detroit, pitching help from Baltimore, infielders Hector Lopez and Billy Martin and outfielder Woody Held from Kansas City, and outfielders Rocky Colavito, Roger Maris, or Al Smith from Cleveland.

Comiskey emphasized that no deal was close to completion.

Added to the Sox roster were right-handed pitcher Hal Trosky Jr. and outfielder Dick Di Tusa. Trosky, 22, was obtained from Indianapolis for pitcher Jim Hughes, while Di Tusa came from the same club for cash.

New Castle Given NBC Franchise

WICHITA, Kans. (UP) — The National Baseball Congress today announced that New Castle, Pa. has been franchised for the first of a series of non-pro district baseball tournaments for the 1958 season.

Pete "Figo" Carvella, New Castle, has been named to supervise the event.

The championship tournament will be one of a series of qualifying events in Pennsylvania in which winners, along with leading teams in franchised leagues in the National Association, will be certified into the 23rd annual state tournament, scheduled tentatively for July at Midland, Pa.

The Pennsylvania state champions will qualify directly into the 24th annual National tournament at Wichita, beginning Aug. 15.

Michigan State Grabs Top Spot In Weekly UP Grid Rating Poll

By FRANK LITSKY

NEW YORK (UP) — Michigan State, rolling up better than 500 yards a game, grabbed the number one spot today in the weekly college football ratings of the United Press Board of Coaches.

Notre Dame and Arkansas, two unbeatens who turned in last-quarter upsets over sectional powerhouses last week, crashed the top 10 in the ratings by 35 leading coaches.

Michigan State displaced Oklahoma as the national leader for only the second time in two years. The Spartans, who won the 1952 national championship, rolled to a 35-6 win over a Michigan team good enough to rate No. 5 last week. Meanwhile, Oklahoma won its 43rd straight game with a 21-7 triumph over Texas but had its hands full.

The coaches gave Michigan State 321 of a possible 350 points, based on 10 points for a first-place ballot, nine for a second place, etc. Oklahoma dropped to 308 points and second place.

Eighteen coaches rated Michigan State No. 1 while Oklahoma received only 12 votes for the top rating. Minnesota drew two first-place ballots and Iowa, Duke and Arkansas had one each.

Notre Dame, a 23-21 winner over Army in the renewal of their colorful rivalry, jumped from an 11th place tie to eighth place. Arkansas, a 20-17 victor over Baylor, advanced from 13th to 9th place. Michigan and Army dropped out of the top 10.

Behind Oklahoma, shooting for its third straight national title, came Minnesota, up one notch from last week. That dropped Texas A&M to fourth place. Iowa leaped from ninth to fifth. Duke was sixth and Oregon State seventh, switching their positions of last week. Auburn again was ranked 10th.

After the top 10 came Mississippi in 11th place, Wisconsin 12th and Pittsburgh 13th. Rice and North Carolina State were tied for 14th, followed by Army in 16th, Ohio State and Navy tied for 17th, and UCLA and Texas Christian tied for 19th.

Other teams drawing votes were Michigan, North Carolina, Florida, Oregon, Penn State, Georgia Tech, Washington State, Texas, Dartmouth, Arizona (Tempe) State and Louisiana State.

Armstrong TKO's Eddie Thompson

NEW YORK (UP) — Middleweight Gene (Ace) Armstrong, a stacker in a gin distillery at Elizabeth, N.J., was in excellent spirits today because his 12th straight professional victory had assured a future fight with ex - contender Randy Sandy.

Unbeaten Gene scored a technical knockout over Eddie (Machine Gun) Thompson of New York in TV fight at St. Nicholas Arena Monday night. Referee Petey Scanzo stopped it at the end of the seventh round because Thompson was bleeding badly from his left brow and his nose.

It was Eddie's first defeat in 14 professional bouts.

Armstrong weighed 153¾ pounds to Thompson's 156¾.

Bell Telephone Asks Special Charge Increase

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Bell Telephone Co. of Pennsylvania today asked Public Utility Commission approval of an estimated $2,748,000 annual increase in service connection and installation charges, effective Dec. 13.

Bell also proposed elimination of a $1 charge for retractable cords in new installations.

The company sought a uniform $7 charge for connecting or reconnecting residential phones, and a flat $10 charge for hooking up or reconnecting business phones.

The current charge for connecting new home telephones is $4.25 in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, and $4 elsewhere. The cost of installion for new business phones is $8 in the two cities and $7 in other sections. A $3 reconnection charge presently is made for both residential and business telephones across the state.

Bell said the monthly service rates of subscribers were "in no way affected" by the proposal. The company said the requested changes would apply only to customers requiring new service or rearrangement of existing telephones. The firm said it would net only 1,200,000 after taxes if the proposal is approved.

Radioactive Milk Poured into Sea

SEASCALE, England (UP) — Authorities consigned thousands of gallons of radiocative milk to the Irish Sea today.

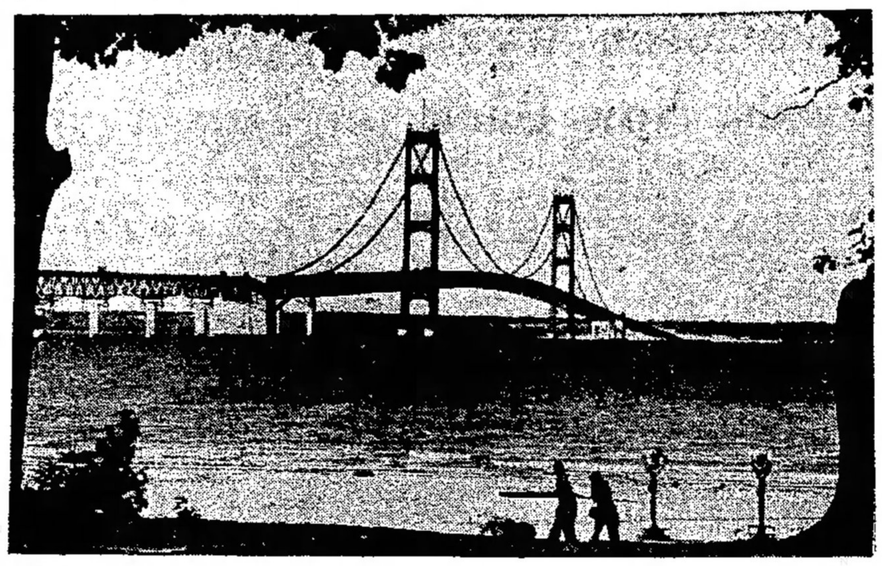
They considered extending to a 400 square-mile area the ban on milk produced in the area around a runaway reactor at the Windscale plutonium plant.

First tests of milk prompted authorities Monday to increase the ban from an original 14 square-mile area to 200 square miles along the Cumberland coast.

One of the two piles in the giant Windscale reactor overheated last Thursday, sending a surge of radio-active waste into the air.

The radio-activity contaminated pasture land enough to increase the level of radio-iodine as much as six times the allowable amount in the milk of some cows.

LASKER AWARD — Dr. Isaac Starr, 62, of Philadelphia, Pa., a pioneer investigator of congestive heart failure, is shown in New York after he was named winner of the 1957 Albert Lasker Award of the American Heart Association. He was honored for "distinguished achievement in the field of cardiovascular research."



NEW MICHIGAN BRIDGE — The Mackinac Bridge as seen from Mackinaw City, Mich. Now in the final phases of construction, the giant span is being erected by U. S. Steel's American Bridge Division. It will be open to traffic about Nov. 1. Part of the steel for the bridge was made at the Donora works.

More Rain Falling in Texas

By UNITED PRESS

Texas skies pumped new transfusions of heavy rain into already overflowing rivers and streams early today, but the weather forecast indicated they would dwindle into showers.

Both southeastern Texas and the southwestern Louisiana coast got heavy rainfall amounts. Nearly 3 inches fell at Beaumont, Tex. since Monday night, and Houston received 3.77 inches.

The milder forecast, however, appeared to signal the final stages of flood activity which caused heavy damage Monday.

Southerly winds carried the warm moist air responsible for the gulf rains farther north today, bringing scattered showers and rain throughout most of the lower and mid-Mississippi Valley. There also was rain in the eastern portion of the central and southern plains states, and in the Rockies and the Dakotas.

Thundershowers in southeastern Florida were the only rainfall activity in the otherwise cloudy East.

Slightly warmer temperatures were recorded early today in Wisconsin and the upper Great Lakes. There was little temperature change east of the Mississippi, while fair weather held in most places west of the Rockies. Temperatures were slightly lower in the Pacific Northwest.

The forecast for today includes scattered showers and thunderstorms from the Mississippi Valley to the Rockies, with some snow at higher elevations in Colorado. Cooler weather is expected over the northern strip westward from the Great Lakes.

Scattered showers are expected in the gulf states, and the forecast elsewhere includes mild and sunny weather.

Fishy Angle To Ice Fall

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa. (UP) —A fishy angle turned up today in the mystery of a reported ice fall at Kinloch, near here.

Last Friday night, a woman reported that her husband was nearly struck by a piece of ice which apparently fell from the sky.

The solution came when a woman disclosed she had thrown ice, which her husband had used to pack his catch while returning from a fishing expedition to Lake Erie, into the roadway to melt.

Some playful boys apparently took advantage of the ice to stage a throwing game.

Bulk of Troops Pulled Out Of Little Rock

WASHINGTON (UP)—The administration plans to pull out nearly all the federal troops enforcing school integration at Little Rock, Ark., it was learned reliably today.

One half of the 1,000 paratroopers guarding Little Rock's Central High School were ordered withdrawn Monday. The Army also relieved 8,500 of the 10,000 Arkansas National Guardsmen federalized for integration duty.

But even if troops are reduced to a "corporal's guard," the Army does not plan to let the school go unguarded.

Reliable sources told the United Press if mobs try again to prevent Negro children from attending the school the troops will be returned quickly.

Ike Gets Special Copy of Bible

WASHINGTON (UP) — The American Bible Society presented to President Eisenhower today the 500,000,001st copy of the Scriptures distributed by the society since its founding in 1816.

The Rev. Dr. James Z. Nettinga, society executive who delivered the Bible to Eisenhower at a White House ceremony, said it symbolized "the start of the second half billion."

Of the first half billion volumes given away or sold at cost by the society about 51 per cent were distributed in this country. The rest in 60 foreign countries. The society publishes Bibles in nearly 200 languages.

The volume presented to Eisenhower was a large family Bible bound in red morocco.

Some 45 per cent of automobile drivers in the United States have dangerous visual problems.

ANTARCTICA STEWARDESSES — These two Pan American World airlines stewardesses will be the first stewardesses to set foot on Antarctica. They have been assigned to a Strato-Clipper which is making a charter flight to McMurdo sound for the U. S. Navy. The first commercial flight to Antarctica will carry 37 Seabees and technicians to the South Pole continent.

Commercial Flight To Antarctic Starts

By CHARLES CORDDRY

ABOARD CLIPPER AMERICA (UP) — The first commercial aircraft flight to the bottom of the earth winged from New Zealand to the Antarctic today.

Capt. Ralph Savory, veteran of 23 years of arctic flying, lifted the 73-ton Pan American Stratoclipper from the Christchurch runway at 10:25 a.m. 4:25 p.m. e.d.t. Monday) and set his course for McMurdo Sound.

Passengers on the 2,400 - mile history-making flight included U.S. Ambassador to New Zealand Francis H. Russell; New Zealand Labor Minister J. K. McAlpine, and 36 U.S. Navy officers and men assigned to Geophysical Year scientific stations.

The crew had two pretty stewardesses, reputedly the first women ever to reach such a southerly point on the "white continent" as the Ross Island Navy Station on McMurdo Sound.

They were dark-haired Patricia Hepinstall, 25, former model for I. Magnin, San Francisco, and a native of 3752 Garnet St., Houston, Tex., and blonde Ruth Kelly, 28. former school teacher from Holyoke, Colo., who resembles Princess Grace.

Both are based in San Francisco and are probably the most thrilled members of the plane's complement. They were to ride in an American versus New Zealand dog sled race and judge a beard-growing contest among the men at McMurdo.

Seabees and other Navy specialists had a last fling with card games and steaks 21,000 feet in the sky. In a few more hours they would spread to seven scientific stations for 18-month tours of duty on the blizzard-beaten continent.

Armco Steel Has Expansion Plans

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (UP) — Armco Steel Corp. announced plans for a $1,500,000 expansion aimed at boosting its production of spiral-welded pipe.

The expansion, expected to increase pipe output by 2,000 tons a month, is slated for the company's number 2 fabricating plant here, the announcement said. Armco also has a plant at Butler, Pa.

UP Official Is Club President

TOKYO (UP) — Ernest Hoberecht, United Press vice-president and general manager for Asia, today was re-elected president of the Foreign Correspondents Club of Japan.

Hoberecht, one of the founders of the club, thus became the first man to serve three times as president. He was president in 1950 and has just completed a second one-year term.

Nixon Claims Reds no Stronger Even Though Satellite Launched

(The editor of The Daily Independent was present in Oklahoma City, Okla., last Saturday when Vice President Nixon held an unusual and lengthy background discussion on pressing national and international questions with editorial writers from many parts of the country. Following is the second report on that conference.)

By HARRY R. PORE Jr.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon says the Russians are not one jota stronger militarily today than they were before they launched the first earth satellite.

The Vice President went deeply into the military situation, with special reference to guided missiles, when he met privately with members of the National Conference of Editorial Writers in Oklahoma City.

The Eisenhower administration believes, he indicated, that the balance of military power remains unchanged in spite of "sputnik", the satellite.

The United States is still definitely superior to the Soviet union and its captives and will remain so for the indefinite future, according to Mr. Nixon.

The Vice President sits as a member of the National Security Council and was undoubtedly representing the views of President Eisenhower in his statements to the editorial writers.

He maintained stoutly, in answer to a question, that the U. S. satellite program has received every dollar American scientists have asked for.

And Mr. Nixon denied with considerable force criticisms to the effect that inter-service rivalry in the Pentagon has in any way held back development of American missiles.

None of what the Vice President told us about defense matters can be quoted directly although he authorized us to report the substance of what he said.

The satellite, he feels, is of interest chiefly for scientific—not military—reasons, although he took pains to avoid any impression that authorities in Washington are discounting the Soviet achievement.

On the contrary, they see it as a timely demonstration to the American people that there are no really inferior nations in the world, that many countries have scientists as competent as our own and, in some particular areas, perhaps even more competent.

We must understand, the Vice President said, that we cannot be first with everything all the time. But if we do our best, he thinks, we will be first a good share of the time because of the inherent strength of our people and our way of life.

Rocket Important

Getting back to the missiles, Mr. Nixon said that from a military standpoint, the rocketry involved in the launching of the Soviet satellite is more significant than "sputnik" itself. Because it demonstrates the capabilities of the Russians in this area.

Mr. Nixon said he had no real information about the Soviet claim to have an operational intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM). Nor did he say anything about the U. S. development of ICBM.

But he pointed out that it is more necessary for the Soviet Union to have the ICBM than for the United States because of the ring of American bases which virtually surround Russia.

From these bases, said Mr. Nixon, the United States could attack Russia as effectively with missiles of only intermediate range as Russia could attack the U. S. with intercontinental missiles. And the intermediate missiles, he hinted, are in a high state of development.

The Vice President discounted a statement made by Krushchev last week to the effect that missiles have rendered strategic bombers useless.

Elimination of U. S. bases remains the immediate objective of Soviet foreign policy, Mr. Nixon pointed out. And this would hardly be the case if the bombers operating from these bases were no longer any good.

My net impression from the Vice President's discussion is that the Eisenhower administration feels this country is not being outguessed or out-researched by the Russians and is still capable of winning any war the Soviets might start. But the administration also views such a war with increasing horror and increasing determination to prevent it.

(Tomorrow — What Vice President Nixon thinks about such matters as "modern Republicanism" and new laws to curb labor union excesses.)

Hussein Gives Views

AMMAN, Jordan (UP) — King Hussein of Jordan warned today that "non-Arab hands" are trying to impose an unpopular regime on Syria and wean it away from traditional Arab policies.

The young king answered a series of questions by United Press correspondent Russell Jones giving his views on the situation in Syria and the steps necessary to maintain Middle Eastern peace.

Hussein warned that the imposition of a non-Arab regime would "subvert the national character of Syria" but he said he was convinced Arab unity would prevail in the long run.

Hussein said that while Jordan had been receiving U.S. arms to counter aggression he did not expect that aggression to come from Syria.

"The Syrian Arabs ultimately will never allow their subversive regime to use arms against any brother Arab country," he said.

"Syria's being armed does not present a direct danger to Jordan.

"The real danger lies in the fact that these arms are used to force, by non-Arab hands, on the Arabs of Syria a regime which does not represent them and which tries to subvert the national character of Syria and of other Arab countries."

Hussein said he was "sure that this whole affair in Syria and of other Arab countries."

Hussein said he was "sure that this whole affair in Syria and Egypt" is temporary. He did not elaborate.

Every year an estimated $100 million worth of power tools are bought by American home owners for use in their homes and by hobbyists.

Group Named to Plan Observance Of Big Battle

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader today named Adjutant General Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., to head a nine-man commission to plan for the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Battle of Gettysburg.

"The Battle of Gettysburg and President Lincoln's Gettysburg Address are an integral part of our rich historical heritage and it is most fitting that we should begin plans now for their 100th anniversary ceremonies," the governor said.

The centennial observance will be held in 1963. Others appointed to the commission were:

John S.Rice, Gettysburg, former property and supplies secretary; Lt. Gen. Willard S. Paul, president of Gettysburg College; Dr. Clarence O. Walton, of Duquesne University; Donald M. Swope, of Gettysburg; Lt. Gen. Milton G. Baker, superintendent of Valley Forge Military Academy; J.Mark Good, Williamsport, Lt. Gen. Edward J. Stackpole, Dauphin, and state Sen. Charles R. Weiner (Philadelphia).

In loving memory of our dear husband, son and brother, Joseph R. Check, who died two years ago today, October 15, 1955.
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief, a shock severe.
It was to part with one so dear.
We often sit and think of you

To think you could not say goodbye
Before you closed your eyes.
For all of us you did your best,
Oh, God, grant you eternal rest.

In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Garthelda Ganahy, who died two years ago today, October 15, 1955.
We miss the many things
You did to make us glad,
Your cheery smile, your twinkling eyes,
And the unique way you had
To make us feel like smiling
When we were feeling low.
You transposed gloom to happiness
And kept us all aglow.
No, we cannot forget you
The memories are dear,
And we'll always think of you
As being very near.

Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day
We still remember well.
Your end was sudden, Father dear,
It made us weep and sigh,
But, oh, the saddest part of all
You never said goodbye.
God gave us strength, and courage
To bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you,
God will only know.

Arms Create Air Pocket; Saves Life

MILWAUKEE (UP) — Marvin Trautmann, 25, threw his arms over his head Monday when a 10-foot ditch in which he was working collapsed and buried him alive.

The air pocket created by Trautmann's arms saved his life, authorities said. It gave him precious moments to live while nearby rescuers dug him out.

He is in fair condition in a Milwaukee hospital.

It's My Duty

Jergens Gets Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Millionaire cosmetics corporation President Andrew N. Jergens, 75, was divorced Monday by his second wife. Mrs. Jergens said her husband went to Europe without her and "to other places without telling me that he was going." She said traveling with him made her ill and gave her the hives. Mrs. Jergens was awarded custody of their children, Elizabeth, 7, and John, 5.

Freed Red Leaders Will Face New Trial

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Justice Department said today two Communist leaders whose convictions were reversed by the Supreme Court Monday "will undoubtedly be re-tried."

The reversals, however, will delay for probably a year a final ruling on the constitutionality of the Smith Act's "membership clause." This part of the law was challenged by the pair — Claude M. Lightfoot of Chicago and Junius Irving Scales of the Carolinas.

The Scales-Lightfoot cases were included in an avalanche of orders announced Monday by the court on appeals piled up during its summer recess.

In other cases linked to subversive problems the court:

—Set aside the contempt conviction of Willard Uphaus, executive director of World Fellowship, Inc., who challenged New Hampshire's subversive activities law.

—Agreed to look into the firing of a New York City subway conductor who refused to say whether he is a Communist. He was discharged under provisions of New York's 1951 security risk law.

—Reversed, with government agreement, the contempt convictions of three Portland, Ore., witnesses who refused to answer questions of the House Committee on Un-American Activities in 1954.

—Denied a hearing to Hugh Bryson, San Francisco union leader, convicted of filing a false non-Communist affidavit with the government in 1951.

The court acted in two cases bearing on the race issue. It refused to review segregationist John Kasper's criminal contempt conviction for interfering with integration of the Clinton, Tenn., high school last year. Kasper must now serve a one-year jail sentence in a federal prison.

It also rejected the fourth appeal of Virgil D. Hawkins, a Negro who has been trying since 1949 to gain admission to the University of Florida Law School at Gainesville.

In other actions Monday the court:

—Agreed to examine the validity of "hot cargo" contracts which provide that union members shall not be required to work on non-union or struck goods.

—Denied a hearing to Acy Lennon, secretary to Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr. (D-N.Y.). Lennon was convicted of income tax evaston Powell Jr. (D-N.Y.). Lennon sion.

—Let stand a decision which allowed a mail order house here to sell General Electric products in New York below manufacturer-set prices.

State FEPC to Join Others in Special Parley

HARRISBURG (UP) — Representatives of the state Fair Employment Practices Commission will join with officials from nine other states at a special meeting in Washington Wednesday to seek federal aid in the enforcement of state anti-discrimination laws.

Elliot M. Shirk, executive director of the Pennsylvania FEPC, and officials from other states with civil rights enforcement agencies, will meet with representatives of the President's Committee on Government Contracts. They will ask the federal government to establish closer cooperation between state and federal agencies, including enactment of provisions for an exchange of relevant information for orders to "cease and desist" against employers with government contracts found in violation of state anti-discrimination regulations.

The meeting stems from a resolution passed last June at the annual Conference of All Commissions Against Discrimination, in which the state FEPC participated.

Negro Leader Dies

LOUISE, Miss. (UP — A Negro philanthropist, born 83 years ago in a sharecropper's cabin, will be buried today in an $11,000 funeral in this tiny delta cotton community. The body of Thomas Jefferson Huddleston, owner of a chain of funeral homes and one of the state's leading philanthropists, will be interred in an elaborate copper casket in a solid copper vault.

Signs of Loss in Hearing

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

I have written more about hearing difficulties during the past few months than any other single subject. As a result, I have received an increased volume of mail indicating very plainly that a great many of you are interested in this matter.

For the most part, I have been discussing hearing troubles in young children. Much of my mail, however, appears to be from older persons who are deeply concerned about their hearing or about the hearing of persons close to them.

This is understandable, of course, because of presbycusis. Presbycusis is a disease which affects almost everyone as he grows older. It's loss of hearing due to age.

About seven out of every ten persons over the age of 55 suffer from it in some form. Luckily, however, only a relatively small percentage have it in such a degree that it affects their ability to function properly.

The higher the age bracket, though, the more persons have hearing difficulties.

Authorities tell me that 18 per cent of our population over the age of 65 has significant hearing loss. That's about 2,700,000 persons.

Often a hearing loss in older persons is accompanied by emotional problems. Frequently they will be irritable and harbor resentment against those close to them, especially when they are unaware of this gradually increasing impairment.

In previous columns I've listed numerous signs which indicate that children may be having hearing difficulties.

Here, then, are four clues which might indicate that an older member of the family has hearing troubles:

1. A poor response to casual remarks.

2. Difficulty in knowing what persons are saying when they call from adjoining rooms.

3. Failure to respond as well as previously to doorbells or buzzers.

4. Failure to understand as well as formerly at the theater.

Watch for these signs in yourself and in older members of your family.

Finland Girl Is Now 'Miss World'

LONDON (UP)—Marita Lindahl, 18, of Finland, won the "Miss World" contest at London's Lyceum Ballroom last night.

She edged out six other finalists. The representatives of Denmark, South Africa, Tunisia, Japan, France and Israel were runners-up in that order.

Miss U.S.A. Charlotte Sheffield of the University of Utah, did not place.

In Hollywood—

Hollywood Birthday Party Lays Big Egg

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Movieland's 50th birthday party laid the biggest egg in history this week when the golden jubilee 17 — city tour was cancelled for lack of interest by the movie stars themselves.

For months the studios, producers and other high brass planned the 20-day junket to rekindle interest in motion pictures.

Everybody was in on it—theater owners, publicity men, agents and moguls. Enthusiasm was lashed up to get a planeload of stars to visit such cities as New York, Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and San Francisco to let the public see its heroes and glamour girls in the flesh.

They overlooked one element—the stars.

No amount of cajoling could get top-notch names to go along with the idea. Thus, the invasion of the hinterlands was called off.

Originally the plan was to show off stars of the stature of Marilyn Monroe, Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Bing Crosby and Audrey Hepburn.

The Producers Assn., which backed the project with $100,000 to meet expenses, announced the cancellation because "extensive production commitments" prevented the big stars from taking part.

Yet many of the luminaries contacted for the jubilee will be trekking to New York this week to attend Mike Todd's wingding at Madison Square Garden.

Upshot of the birthday party that flopped is much bitterness within the industry. With theater business down 21 per cent over last year, the movie colony is in serious financial trouble. And many Hollywoodians are pointing their fingers at the stars.

They say the wealthy men and women stars, many of whom have made millions from the silver screen in the past 25 years, are bringing about their own downfall.

Others blame the major studios. But studio bigwigs point out that they no longer have control of the stars. Fifteen years ago studio chiefs would have ordered their stars to go on the junket.

Today most players have formed their own companies, and do as they please when they're not working.

Television In Rut, Critic Says

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) —This TV season has caught the bird from critics all over the country.

The trouble isn't difficult to diagnose. TV is in a rut. It trots out the same old faces, week after week.

Actually, the solution is pretty simple. All that's needed is a few shifts in the casts of TV shows to give the season a little razzle-dazzle.

For the benefit of network officials, therefore, we present the following list of suggestions for cast changes:

Stand Up and Be Counted — Artie Shaw's wives.

Name That Tune — Dizzy Gillespie.

You Bet Your Life — Lavrenti Beria.

Big Record — Papa and Mama Dionne.

Telephone Time — Anybody's teen-age daughter.

Youth Wants to Know —Georgie Jessel.

Seven Lively Arts — Godfrey, Carney, Murray, Linkletter, Shaw, Baker and Chester K.

Big Top—Jayne Mansfield.

As the World Turns—Sputnik.

Date With the Angels—Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Court of Last Resort—Mr. Nielsen.

Original Amateur Hour—Washington Senators.

Strike it Rich—Mike Todd.

Wally and The Beaver—Duchess of Windsor and Monty Woolley.

The Price is Right—Polly Adler.

You Asked for It—Casey Stengel.

Look up and Live—Any Manhattan pedestrian.

What's it For—Elvis Presley.

Beat the Clock—Tommy Manville.

Let's Take a Trip—John Foster Dulles.

This is Your Life—Bridey Murphy.

Queen For a Day—Leona Gage.

Father Knows Best —Robert Sarnoff.

People's Choice—Lew Burdette.

M Squad— Marilyn Monroe, Mitch Miller, Mickey Mantle, Mickey Mouse.

Treasure Hunt —Porfirio Rubirosa.

Big Payoff—New York Yankee bettors.

The Californians —Willie Mays and Co.

To tell the Truth—39-year old Jack Benny.

Bachelor Father—Man O'War.

I've Got a Secret—Jimmy Hoffa.

She's not Really an Indian

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—So Marlon Brando's exotic Indian bride turned out to be a former Welch butcher's assistant name of Joanna O'Callaghan.

Well, the joke isn't on Brando, gentle reader, it's on you. And on us newspapermen. For this is the sort of hoax Hollyood has been staging without inhibition and with good profit since the silent flickers first made those of us born every minute curious about the private lives of the stars.

And, what's more, Hollywood will go right on doing it.

We asked an independent publicity man today what he thought of posing Miss O'Callaghan as that Buddha-worshipping daughter of the Himalayas, Anna Kashfi.

"So what?" he said. "As long as no one loses money, or is hurt, what difference does it make? It's a game the public expects."

Miss O'Callaghan's own studio, Metro Goldwyn Mayer, says it didn't know that Anna was not an Indian.

"I didn't know her real name until this marriage business came up," said MGM publicity man Howard Strickland. "We discovered by checking her passport and work permit that her name is O'Callaghan.

"Of course we exploited the fact she was Indian. It is always a plus factor when an actress can be called an exotic import."

Brando himself is the result of a publicity campaign. He of the mumbles, torn shirt and Bohemian background turned out to be a kid from a quiet family in Omaha. He must have a yen for the Orient. In his first Broadway play, the program listed him as born in Bangkok.
